MORE CARS RUNNING
ON BOSTON "L" ROADMayor Fitzgerald Continues His Efforts to Have the
Trouble Settled

BOSTON, June 11.—Quiet conditions on the lines of the Boston Elevated Ry. Co. marked the beginning of the fifth day of the strike of Boston's big trolley system. An increased number of cars were put in operation on all the company's surface, elevated and subway lines and the company officials claimed that the service was rapidly nearing normal. Union officials claimed that the service has not nearly reached the normal stage. They said that new members, including a number of older men in the company's service, are joining the union. The union men remain firm in their demand for recognition of the union and increased pay.

For the first time since the strike began early morning cars were put in commission at 2 o'clock for the accommodation of the nightworkers and newspaper men but only a few persons rode in them. This was due to a vote of the union men which made the payment of dues forfeit for patronizing the cars. When the cars passed newspaper men for the crowd cheered by the crowd. Union officials arranged for a parade and mass meeting to show the strength of the strikers this afternoon.

Mayor Fitzgerald and city officials continued their activities in trying to effect a settlement of the strike. Although President William A. Hancock of the elevated company has refused to meet officials of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railroad Employees, he has agreed to meet the state board of arbitration if that body desires.

CAR SERVICE

APPROACHED NEARLY NORMAL
THIS MORNING

BOSTON, June 11.—The street car service of Boston more nearly approached the normal today than at any time since Friday morning, when momen and conductors of the Boston Elevated railway struck for a minimum wage and recognition of their union. There were scarcely any signs of disorder and few arrests. Interest centered in the investigation of dynamite found in the Brighton district and while the officers were questioning John S. Hutchinson regarding three sticks said to have been found in his house, two officers came into the police station with two more sticks of the explosive which they claimed to have picked up beside the Commonwealth avenue car tracks. According to the officers the latest discovery of dynamite indicated that several inbound cars early today had narrow escapes from being blown to pieces. They said that the dynamite was only a foot or two from the tracks and appeared to have been thrown aside by the wheels of a car. They explained the failure to explode by stating that the dynamite was wet from a night's rain. Hutchinson was taken upstairs to the police court and held in $50 for a hearing Friday.

AN INVESTIGATION OF THE BOSTON STRIKE MAY BE ORDERED

BOSTON, June 11.—The strike reached the legislature today when Representative J. J. Murphy of Boston introduced an order providing for an investigation by the railroad commission and a report by that board to the state board of arbitration within five days. The order also provides for the summoning of the officers of the Elevated company and the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway employees of America local 559 by the state board of arbitration after the report of the railroad commission is received and the laying before the officials of both sides of plans and specifications for a settlement. The order was laid over until the afternoon session of the house.

Held a Brief Session
This Afternoon

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Rep. Robert Wickliffe of Louisiana met a tragic death here this morning. His badly crushed body was found on the railroad tracks in Potomac park, near the entrance to the bridge across the Potomac river. It is presumed he was either knocked off or fell from a train bound for the south.

NEGRO KNIGHTS
MAY USE PYTHIAN NAME, SAYS
CHIEF JUSTICE

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Chief Justice White reversed yesterday the judgment of the supreme court of Georgia, which affirmed the judgment of the lower court enjoining the negro knights of Pythias of Georgia from using the name of the Pythian emblem and insignia or any imitations of the parent order of that name which has a white membership exclusively. This decision is far reaching in its effect, as there has been a general movement throughout the Southern states to restrain the negroes from using the names or emblems of the white orders.

The Georgia court based its decision on the rules of law which protect the public against unfair trade methods. Justice Holmes and Justice Lurton dissented. Chief Justice White held that there was no evidence to show that the colored lodges had injured their white namesakes in any way, and inasmuch as the negroes had maintained their organization without complaint from the whites for more than 20 years, their membership having attained 300,000, the white lodges were guilty of laches and could not be heard to complain in a court of equity under such circumstances.

CHINAMAN IS HELD
ON MURDER CHARGEAccused of Causing the Death of Another

NEW YORK, June 11.—Lee Dock, a Chinaman, 24 years old, who said he lives in Adams street, Brooklyn, was held for the coroner by Magistrate Kernohan in the Tombs police court yesterday. He is accused of causing the death of Lee Kay, a Chinese merchant of 18 Mott street, who died yesterday in the Hudson street hospital of a bullet wound inflicted by Dock. The shooting occurred February 18. Kay was sitting in his store about 5:30 o'clock in the evening when Dock, who is a Hip Sing Tong, and another Hip Sing Tong man kicked open the door of his store and began firing at him.

When he dropped to the floor Dock and his friend ran into one of the Chinatown tenements and escaped. Detectives Nelson and Mangin arrested Lee Dock. He was taken to the hospital and identified by Kay. Dock was later let go on $1,000 bail. Kay told the police he was not a member of either tong and did not know why Lee Dock had selected him for his target. Last Monday Kay's condition became such that Coroner Holtzhauser was called to take his ante-mortem statement. Dock was then arrested. He will be tried this week by the coroner's jury.

TROLLEY LINES CONSOLIDATED
BOSTON, June 11.—The consolidation of seven small trolley lines along the Meriden valley with the Haverhill & Southern New Hampshire Street Railway Co. was approved today by Gov. Foss.

HOUSE BREAKER WAS CAUGHT WITH LOOT

Important Capture by Officer P. Connolly
This Morning

The residence of William E. Hall, treasurer of the Shaw Stocking Co., at 365 Wilder street, at the corner of Princeton street, was broken into either late last night or early this morning and the person who entered the place stole numerous articles of value, especially silverware. At 2:40 o'clock this morning a man who gave the name of Thomas Morrison was arrested on suspicion by Patrolman Patrick Connolly in the vicinity of Lincoln square and later his brother, Michael Connolly, from an adjoining beat, appeared on the scene and the man was sent to the police station.

The arrest is a very important one and reflects much credit on the vigilance of Patrolman Patrick Connolly, for when the man reached the police station it was found that he had on his person 18 silver spoons, valued at $1.55 each; three forks, valued at $2.00 each; 11 forks valued at 25 cents each; one watch valued at $2.50; a pair of shoes valued at $3.00; a pair of socks worth 75 cents; one coat worth $10 and an umbrella worth 50 cents.

The man, who gives the name of Morrison, is a stranger in this city and refuses to divulge much information to the police. He belongs out of town and although his appearance is very good, he, when arraigned in police court this morning admitted that he was guilty.

When Patrolman Patrick Connolly was passing through Lincoln square shortly before three o'clock this morning his attention was attracted to many persons who were passing through the square, presumably going to the circus which was being unloading from the cars in Meadowcroft street. Suspicious that there were many trailers who were following the circus he made a careful observation of every person who passed him. One man came along whose clothing was bulged out and the officer stopped him and found that he had several articles on his person which he could not give a very good account of and Patrolman Connolly arrested him on suspicion. At about this time, Patrolman Michael Connolly, who is a brother of the other officer, and has an adjoining beat, appeared on the scene and assisted in the arrest.

PATROLMAN PATRICK CONNOLLY

When the man was brought to the police station and searched it was found that he had various articles which it was subsequently learned were stolen from Mr. Hall's residence.

Arraigned in Court

In police court this morning when the man was charged with breaking and entering and larceny he admitted his guilt. Deputy Downey informed the court that inasmuch as the man is a stranger in this city and that the police did not have a chance to learn of his identity, asked for a continuance and suggested that the man should be placed under $1000 bonds, but the court decided to hold him under $500 bonds until next Tuesday.

In the meantime the police will investigate the character of the man and prepare the case for Tuesday.

Case Dismissed

William F. Lawrence, who is alleged to have broken into three local schoolhouses and was given a preliminary hearing in the local court last week, was this morning dismissed inasmuch as he had been indicted by the grand jury for breaking and entering and larceny.

Nine Months in Jail

Michael Harrington, who appeared in court Saturday morning on a complaint charging him with the larceny of $40, withdrew his appeal and will go to jail.

Other Offenders

Austin Gilday, an old timer, was before the court. He was arrested by Patrolman David Petrie, who testified that the man was a common loafer, and had asked him (the officer) for a dime, claiming that he was very sick. Patrolman Connolly corroborated the testimony offered by Patrolman Petrie. The man was sentenced to five months in jail.

Thomas Lindsay was sentenced to the state farm.

James Willet was ordered to pay a fine of $5 and three first offenders were fined $2 each. There were several simple drunks who were discharged before the opening of court.

Was a Vagrant

Robert Topping, charged with being a vagrant, admitted that he had no home and was sentenced to the state farm.

Many Assault Cases

James Postel and Athanasios James were charged with assault and battery on Michael Koloflos and after a long hearing both defendants were found guilty, the former being fined $12 and the latter $5.

In the case of George Pelsay, charged with assault and battery, a continuance until next week was granted.

Theodoras Harakos was charged with having assaulted Thomas J. Nounkas and he was also found guilty and a fine of $6 imposed.

Thomas Joesse, who was charged with having assaulted a fellow-countyman, was fined $5.

In the case of Vladislav Sopal, charged with assault and battery, the court imposed a fine of $5.

Not Guilty and Discharged

Thomas F. Brown, who was arrested on suspicion of having stolen a suit of clothes, was brought into court this morning, but inasmuch as the government could not prove its case the man was discharged.

NO NEW OUTBREAKS IN CUBA
HAVE BEEN REPORTED TODAYThere Will be No Additions to the Naval Force Now in Cuba

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The absence of any fresh outbreaks in Havana has encouraged the state department in the belief that the measures already taken to show the purpose of this government to maintain order in Cuba have been sufficient. It has been decided that there shall be no additions to the naval force now in Cuban waters unless unexpected developments make them necessary.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The admiral Flak, the ranking officer at Key West will remain there for the present with the battleships New Jersey and Nebraska. By wireless the navy department will keep in constant touch with the first division of the Atlantic fleet after it leaves Hampton Roads with the midshipmen aboard and it is expected that plans for the exercises of that portion of the fleet, which were interrupted by the threat of an aspect of Cuban affairs soon will be resumed.

TITANIC DISASTER
BOARD OF TRADE INQUIRY RE-SUMED IN LONDON

LONDON, June 11.—At the resumption today of the board of trade inquiry into the Titanic disaster Sir Rufus Isaacs, attorney-general, announced his intention of submitting to the court that the wireless despatch which notified that the ship had been seen in the route of the Titanic was handed to J. Bruce Ismay in his capacity as managing director of the White Star Co. because of its seriousness. The admiralty hydrographers, Captain Francis Miller, was called to the stand and gave his opinion in opposition to the introduction of searchlights on liners.

NO PICKETING TODAY

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 11.—The strikers at the Russell Manufacturing Co.'s plant did not begin "peaceful picketing" this morning and there was no demonstration of any kind when the local employees arrived at the mills as usual on trolley cars from the city.

WAITERS STRIKE

THEY QUIT WORK IN A CHICAGO
HOTEL

CHICAGO, June 11.—Visions of a spread of the New York waiters' strike to Chicago hotels during the republican national convention loomed up last night when thirty-five waiters employed at the La Salle hotel suddenly dropped trays containing soup and marched out of the main banquet room, leaving 600 members of the Northwestern Medical Men's association gazing in wonder.

"The trouble," said Manager Wolf, "was that the men became angered at a delay of the medical men in gathering. They demanded extra pay. This was refused and the men simply quit. The fact that the regulars took their places without comment convinces us that there is no likelihood of a general strike."

STILL UNSOLVED

MURDER OF EIGHT PERSONS
REMAINS A MYSTERY

VILLASCA, Pa., June 11.—The mystery of the murder of Joseph Moore and seven others Sunday night is still unsolved. The bloodhounds which followed a trail from the Moore home to the river yesterday, losing it soon afterwards, were again used today. It was planned to hold the funeral of the eight victims this afternoon.

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS
TO STORM CONVENTIONIf Republicans Do Not Adopt a
Plank Favoring Woman Suffrage—Ready to Fight

CHICAGO, June 11.—If a bolt of the republican national convention comes from no other quarter, it may be furnished by the woman suffragists. Mrs. Catherine Waugh McCulloch declared last night that unless a plank favoring equal suffrage is included in the national platform the guns of the women's party will be trained on the republicans.

The threat, according to the women should cause serious consideration on the part of the delegates, as their refusal might mean the loss of five or six states which have instituted equal suffrage.

Miss Jane Addams has been selected to argue for the plank before the platform committee. If it is refused the suffragists will work for their cause on the floor of the convention, chiefly through Mrs. Isabel Blaney, delegate at large from California.

TAFT WON OUT

IN ALL THE CONTESTS IN INDI-ANA

CHICAGO, June 11.—By the unanimous vote of the republican national committee yesterday the Taft delegates-at-large from Indiana were ordered seated in the coming republican national convention over the Roosevelt delegates-at-large, who contested their seats.

In addition to the four delegates-at-large the Taft men were seated from the 1st, 3d and 13th districts which were contested. The contest in the 4th district was abandoned by the Roosevelt men. That brought the steam roller record up to 84 Roosevelt men flung out to date and the work will be resumed today.

One of yesterday's victims of the Taft steam roller was no less a personage than ex-Senator Albert Jernighan Beveridge, who headed the Roosevelt delegation-at-large from the Hoosier state. Incidentally the action of the committee resurrected politically ex-Vice President Charles Warren Fairbanks and ex-United States Senator James W. Hemenway of the same state, who have been forcibly kept in the background by the progressive element of the party of late. Mr. Fairbanks is a Taft delegate-at-large and Mr. Hemenway a district delegate.

Disturbed at Showing

On the suggestion of Senator Crane the California cases were disposed of by putting 24 of the Roosevelt delegates on the temporary roll of the convention and postponing until Wednesday the contest in the San Francisco district which Taft carried but whose delegates were denied the certificate of election by the secretary of the state. There had been rumors that the committee would unsal the Roosevelt delegates because they were elected at large instead of by districts as the call of the committee provided.

The failure of the Roosevelt men to make a better showing in the Indiana cases disturbed some of the secretary's followers who had been led to believe by the statement sent out by Senator Dixon and the claim made by Ormsby McHare, the colonel's contest expert, that when Indiana was reached there would be an exposure of the methods of the Taft men that would bring the blush of shame to the cheeks of every American citizen who believes in fair play and decent politics.

But when the case of the delegates-at-large was all in the Roosevelt members of the committee voted with the Taft men to place the Taft delegates on the temporary roll of the convention.

The fight on the at-large delegates was based on the ground of fraud in the Indianapolis primaries, but as the Roosevelt men showed only 200 fraudulent votes in a vote of 6500 for Taft and 1400 for Roosevelt the committee took the ground that it must accept the certificate and abide by the primary result.

HOT FOR ROOSEVELT

SOUTHERN POSTMASTER DE-CLARES FOR THE COLONEL

MOBILE, Ala., June 11.—"I'm going to vote for Roosevelt if he chop my head off," declared Postmaster Byron Trammel of Dothan, a member of the Alabama republican delegation. He is one of the two delegates to the Chicago convention from this state who say they will vote for Roosevelt. The other is Postmaster J. B. Laughery of Geneva, both being from the 3rd district. Trammel says that Roosevelt announced he would be a candidate after the delegates from the third district were elected and that his entrance in the race changed the entire political complexion. Under such circumstances, he said, he has a right to support the colored if he chooses to do so, notwithstanding he is listed as a Taft delegate.

KENTUCKY CONTEST

MAY BE ONLY ONE, FINISHED
TODAY

CHICAGO, June 11.—The time consumed in the presentation of the Indiana contests before the Indiana convention yesterday made it a question of whether more than the Kentucky contests could be finished today. Unless the Kentucky and Louisiana cases can be cleared up it is probable that the committee will be forced into night sessions to dispose of the many contests before the convention meets a week from today.

The 13 contested delegates from Kentucky held the right of way when the committee began today's work. Four delegates at large and two each from the first, second, fourth, seventh, eighth, tenth and eleventh districts were concerned in the contests which were to be heard during the day's session. The first delegation at large was headed by Senator W. C. Bradley.

To present the cases to the national committee the Taft forces had drawn into the arguments, W. D. Cochran, E. P. Moore and R. C. Stall, all of Kentucky. The Roosevelt faction was represented by E. C. O'Rear, former chief justice of the state supreme court; Leslie Combs and Henry E. Duncan.

NATURALIZATION COURT

Many Applicants Took Out Papers Today

Clerk William Dillingham, of the naturalization court was in this city again today in order to give out first and second naturalization papers. He was on deck at the court house in Gorman street, at 2:30 o'clock today with his assistant and in the course of the forenoon 15 second papers were given out.

There was a very large crowd of would-be citizens on hand and all were anxious to receive either their first or second papers. The session lasted all afternoon, but the clerk was not sure if he would return to this city tomorrow.

HEARING OF $50,000 SUIT

Resumed in Superior Court Today

The case of Gertrude C. Kilpatrick, administratrix of the estate of the late J. C. W. Kilpatrick, vs. Charles E. Cotter and Philip Dexter, trustees of the Tremont building in Boston, which was started in superior court yesterday morning, was resumed today before Judge Stevens. In this case the plaintiff sues to recover $50,000 for alleged injuries received by the late J. C. W. Kilpatrick, who it is claimed was fatally injured in one of the elevators of the Tremont building on September 25, 1910, and that he died in November of the same year as a result of the injuries.

MANY PERSONS INJURED IN COLLISION AT CLINTON

Passenger Train Crashed Into a Freight Train Near the Union Station Today

CLINTON, June 11.—Two persons were seriously injured, six others were hurt and about 50 passengers were badly shaken up when a passenger train on the New York, New Haven & Hartford road crashed head on into a freight train near the Union station here shortly before noon today.

The most seriously injured were J. H. Garland of Marlboro, conductor of the passenger train and John Morely, fireman. Conductor Garland suffered internal injuries, and at the hospital it was feared that he might die. The fireman had both ankles broken and was badly cut and bruised.

The engines of both trains were demolished, several of the freight cars were derailed and the mail car, attached to the passenger train, was thrown against a water tank. The front trucks of the forward passenger

ONE MAN KILLED SEVERAL INJURED

In an Accident at Quincy Today

QUINCY, June 11.—A bulkhead pipe weighing nine tons, dropped ten feet on the molasses steamer Nelson, undergoing repairs at the Fore River Shipbuilding yards today and killed one workman, seriously injuring two others and hurt a fourth man. The dead, Charles Solsan, an electrician, may die. Joseph Yarr, a riveter, seriously hurt. Daniel McDonald, a caulker, crushed but will recover.

The men were at work on the vessel when the pipe, hanging from above them broke loose and fell.

NARROW ESCAPE

CHILDREN WERE ON BILLBOARD WHICH COLLAPSED

A large number of small children narrowly escaped serious injury this forenoon when a large billboard toppled over at the corner of Devon and Market streets. As it was, several of them were slightly injured.

The children in order to get a better view of the circus parade climbed up on the billboard and waited until the procession came by. Suddenly the heavy weight on the board made it topple over and the boys and girls were thrown to the sidewalk. Fortunately the board struck a tree and did not fall to the ground.

Some of the boys and girls were injured slightly but they remained on the premises until the circus parade had gone by.

MANY LIVES IN DANGER

Another Flood in Louisiana Causes Damage

NEW ORLEANS, June 11.—Water from the great Hymella crevasse, the worst of the Mississippi river floods is again menacing lives of inhabitants of the Des Allemandes section of Louisiana. In answer to appeals from army officers engaged in relief work a special train was hurried to the Des Allemandes section late yesterday. Refugees were taken out of danger zone and food supplies were distributed. Water is four feet deep over the greater part of the Lafourche section and is going higher. Since government engineers gave up the attempt to close the Hymella break the breach constantly has widened and flood water has daily extended into country not damaged.

BIGGEST SHOW ON EARTH IS IN LOWELL TODAY

Thousands Saw Grand Street Parade—Immense Audience at Afternoon Performance

Circus! There's magic in the word, and this is circus day. Barnum & Bailey's greatest show on earth came to Lowell this morning at an hour when most people were in the land of nod, and quietly with all the dignity of a church picnic took up its abode for the day at the Fair grounds in Graham street.

Four trains of 55 cars were required to transport the huge organization which would be to attend the doings under the "big top."

And what shall be said of the performance which began at 2 o'clock this afternoon and will be repeated in its entirety at 8 o'clock tonight? Coming down just to work-a-day English as it is spoken by the man in the street, it may be said that the Barnum & Bailey circus is a bully show and fully which is this season larger than ever before. The first thing on the circus day schedule was the parade of this morning which passed over the grand old streets. If ever a circus parade had a verbal and rhetorical bouquet of adjectival superlatives coming to it, Barnum & Bailey's is the said parade. It was there with the real goods from stem to stern—with the "glittering, golden, gorgeous, gigantic, gladdening, glimmering"—but, whoa, back up! The writer has shot his circus bullet, he looked all over his circus adjectives this morning and found them badly frayed at the edges and almost totally unfit for use. Some of them were bent almost double from long use, and many were crumpled or sprung. The truth is they have been badly overworked in instances where they didn't really fit. Now comes the Barnum & Bailey circus—admittedly the biggest and best—and the writer frankly confesses that he is at his wit's end to do justice to the pageant with which the circus folks delighted thousands this morning.

It was a corking parade, and how we did enjoy it! If you wanted to get anywhere while the parade had the honor, your one wish was that you had an airplane which blocked that "passage through" was almost out of the question. If your office window fronted on a street through which the parade passed your friends were Johnnies on the spot. There were no vacant windows.

One of the many features of the parade that attracted much attention was the fine line of horses. Not all of the fine horses were dressed to kill, though perhaps the banners of silver and gold made them the more attractive. The draft horses were as fine a lot as one would find in a month of travel and the twenty ponies hitched to the little wagon were just too cute for anything. We might say something about the girls who rode these, but they will never read this, so what's the use of going in raptures over them and, besides, their color is not natural.

The writer heard one fellow say that he recognized at least three of the elephants and he swore by the silvering calloso that they carried the same trunk as on their previous visit, and he was willing to wager that the camels hadn't changed their humps. To make a long story short, the parade, from leading hand wagon down to the striking calloso pleased the most captivated critic and did much to complete the wavering few that the next best thing to do would be to attend the doings under the "big top."

miss seeing this latest and greatest development of the circus idea. The entire performance will be repeated at 8 o'clock tonight and the spectacle will be enhanced by calcium light effects.

Fell Into Good Hands

In weaving his way through the crowd in Merrimack st. after the circus parade had passed, City Clerk Blodgett came upon a lost boy. He was four or five years old. The poor little fellow was crying as though his heart would break. Mr. Blodgett took him by the hand and escorted him to city hall. There he had dried his tears and told the clerk his name was Ralph Wilson and that he lived at 87 Bang-shire street. The city clerk telephoned to the police and within an hour Ralph's aunt called at the city clerk's office and took him home. He had gone out with his cousin, two years his senior, and he got lost in the shuffle. Ralph was asked if he wanted to go to the circus and he shook his little head as much as to say that he had seen all this circus that he cared to see.

License Fee Increased

The office of the license commission in the Market building was one of the busiest places in the city this morning, the principal customers being hawkers who follow the circus for the purpose of selling balloons, pin-wheels and various other articles. Heretofore the license for these persons was but $1, but this year it was increased to $2, and there were many

THE LOCAL FIREMEN HONORED THEIR DEAD

By Memorial Service at Different Cemeteries

The members of the local fire department held memorial services Sunday by visiting each cemetery in this city and placing standards and flowers on the graves of the deceased members of the department. There was a delegation of two men from each company and they were accompanied by Deputy Chiefs Edward F. Saunders, James C. Sullivan and Assistant Engineer Charles E. Alway.

The services were very impressive and all the members of the department who were off duty were in attendance. During the past year Deputy Chief James E. Norton and Assistant Engineer Charles E. Stackpole have passed away, also former Captain William Flynn, of Hose Co. No. 8.

In the afternoon services were held at the different cemeteries. At the Catholic cemetery in Graham street Rev. Dr. Kelcher, pastor of St. Peter's church read prayers over the graves of Messrs. Norton and Flynn while at the Westwood cemetery where Assistant Engineer Stackpole is buried Rev. Mr. Fisher of the First Universalist church, conducted services and delivered a eulogy.

Alderman Andrew L. Barrett, who is commissioner of the fire and water departments of the city, was also present.

Sunburned Kiddies need not suffer. Neither should grown-ups.

With winter over, the skin is very tender to the rays of a summer sun. The arms, the back of the neck, the cheeks, turn red and peel and crack and hurt like thunder!

Here's Something Soothing for Sunburn

TOILETINE
Soothes and Heals

Take your bottle of Toiletine that you should always keep in the house, and apply it freely where ever there is a sunburn. Rub it into the skin and the pain will sleep. When you treat your sunburn with Toiletine you can wear a collar on your neck—you can roll down your cuffs, and your hat won't chafe your forehead. Sunburn isn't so bad after all if you use Toiletine.

Toiletine isn't for sunburn alone. It's for all such discomforts as chapped hands and face—fine for a cracked lip—healing to a cut, scald or burn, and very pleasant on the face while shaving and after shave.

Chilblains, sores, and eczema, and all the skin eruptions that people have are benefited by Toiletine. If you want us to give you a free sample to prove this, we'll be glad to do it. Drop a postal card to us today and

BANKER WAS ARRESTED IN A CANDY FACTORY

He is Wanted in Holland on a Charge of Embezzlement
—Brother Also Arrested

BOSTON, June 11.—Working as helper in a North End candy factory for $3 a week, Dirk Van Eyk, who, up to a year ago was a leading banker of Amsterdam, Holland, was found and arrested yesterday afternoon by the Boston police on a warrant forwarded from the state department at Washington. He is charged with obtaining $20,000 by means of false pretenses from several parties in Holland.

DOCTOR TELLS HOW TO SHED BAD COMPLEXION

We cannot restore degenerated facial tissue any more than we can restore a lost limb. It is useless to attempt to convert a worn-out complexion into a new one. The rational procedure is to remove the complexion instead—remove the devitalized cuticle. Not by surgical means, however, as the underlying cutis is too thin, too tender, to withstand immediate exposure. Applying ordinary mercurized wax will gradually absorb the offending cuticle. By degrees, a new, youthful skin appears; a skin soft and delicately tinted as a rose petal.

No lady need hesitate to try this. Procure an ounce of mercurized wax of the druggist. Spread on a thin layer before retiring, removing this in the morning with soap and water. In from one to two weeks the complexion is completely transformed.

An approved treatment for wrinkles is provided by dissolving an ounce of powdered salicylic acid in a half-pint of water. Bathing the face in the solution brings prompt results.—Dr. Rupert Mackenzie in Popular Medicine.

apprehended in a Back Bay garage, where he had, recently obtained employment as a chauffeur. He is charged with the embezzlement of $28,500. They will waive their rights and return to Holland.

Chief Director of Bank

Dirk Van Eyk, who was also known under the name of Dirk Muller, is 40 years of age, was chief director of the Bank of Commerce and Industry and a member of the Amsterdam Chamber of Deputies. The other brother is two years younger. He was also connected with the same organizations and was equally prominent in social and business circles of Holland.

The only name mentioned in the complaint is that of Adrian A. Ramondt of Sluisdijk, Holland, though others suffered losses, it is alleged. The brothers disappeared on July 6, 1911, and all trace of them was lost until a few days ago when they were located at 135 Warren avenue, in the South End, by means of a letter. At the Warren avenue house the two brothers were living with Mrs. Muller, mother-in-law of Dirk, and his two children. Christian Van Eyk is also married and has a wife and several children in Holland.

From what the police have been able to ascertain, there are five of the Van Eyk brothers. All were well to do in Holland and were entrusted with the care and funds of several estates. They also handled a stock and brokerage trade. It appears that one of the brothers was a daring speculator and he invested funds amounting to a large sum for which there was no return. An effort was made to replace the losses by more speculations, and when these failed Christian and his brother decided to escape.

Accompanied by Mrs. Muller and the two children they left Amsterdam on July 6, 1911, and sailed for Liverpool, where they embarked for New York. From the latter place they came to Boston, reaching here early in August of last year. They had little or no money and for a time the brothers were unable to obtain employment, but Mrs. Muller opened a lodging house at the Warren avenue address.

Brothers Work at Odd Jobs

In their reduced circumstances the brothers sought odd jobs and employment by the day at all kinds of work. Last winter Dirk succeeded in getting a place in a Causeway street candy factory at $6 a week, and he was such an industrious workman that he received several advances, until his wages were $9. In the meantime Christian worked in an automobile concern, until recently he obtained a license from the highway commission and then got a position in a garage.

About a week ago Charles Dacey, of 10 Broad street, acting counsel for Holland and The Netherlands here was informed that the brothers were in Boston and he turned the facts in the case over to Chief Inspector Dugan. A few days ago when Capt. McGarr and Armstrong located the men, the warrants were sent here from Washington and the arrests followed.

THREE BOSTONIANS HONORED BY POPE

At Request of Cardinal
O'Connell

BOSTON, June 11.—Unprecedented honors for this archdiocese have been conferred by Pope Pius X upon three prominent Catholic laymen, William J. Dooley, James M. Prendergast and Henry V. Cunningham. The honors came through Cardinal O'Connell, for the interest and activity which the three men have taken in Catholic affairs in Boston.

Mr. Dooley has been made private chamberlain to the Pope, an honor which entitles him to the full regalia of a Knight of the Sword and the Cape. Mr. Prendergast and Mr. Cunningham have been made Knights of the Order of St. Gregory the Great. Of the three men, James M. Prendergast is probably the best known to citizens of Boston. He is at the head of the firm of James M. Prendergast & Co., cotton goods brokers at 37 Milk street. He started in the business as an office boy and went to the front rapidly. He has also been connected with the Boston Elevated in prominent positions. For 13 years preceding last February he was one of Boston's park commissioners, and to him no small credit must be given for the great advances made in Boston's park system during that time.

William J. Dooley is in business with Mr. Prendergast as a member of the firm. For years he has been engaged in the quietest manner possible, carrying on charitable work of the most extensive kind. He is a member of the Catholic union of Boston, the Catholic club of New York, the Cathedral Guild and the Knights of Columbus. Shortly after Cardinal O'Connell returned from the consistory this year, Mr. Dooley was made gentleman of honor to the cardinal.

Henry V. Cunningham has also been prominent in philanthropic work in the city. He is president of the Archdiocesan Federation of Catholic Societies and of the Cathedral Guild.

OLIVE OIL IN THE HOUSEHOLD

Next to bread, there is no one article of food which has so much value as pure olive oil. It is so easily digested that it can and should be used with nearly all our foods. Pompanian Olive Oil, from the finest groves in Italy, not chemically treated or adulterated in any way, has such a sweet, nutty taste that it improves the taste of foods and at the same time gives to the body health and strength.

Pompanian Olive Oil when mixed with the flour used in clam soup, cream of tomato, or other thick soups, imparts a most delicious flavor. In making fish cutlets, or frying fish of any kind, use Pompanian Olive Oil instead of butter or lard, and the taste will be improved one hundred per cent. Sweet potato croquettes, cold slaw, macaroni and other dishes are likewise made tastier when this oil is used. By reason of its sweet, nutty flavor, it should be used in preference to any other kind for salad dressings, especially when fruit salads are served. In scrambling eggs, a little cream and olive oil put in the frying pan gives you a dish better than anything you ever tried before. Ask your dealer for a book of Pompanian recipes, and when once you try this oil in cooking, you will never do without it.

Pompanian Olive Oil is sold by druggists and grocers. Full one-half pint cans, 25 cents; full pint cans, 50 cents; full quart cans, 90 cents.

A. W. SHAW FOUND GUILTY OF LARCENY OF $19,000

Mrs. Georgia Stuart Convicted of Having Received the Stolen Money

BOSTON, June 11.—A. W. Shaw was found guilty of the larceny of about $19,000 from two Maine shoe manufacturing concerns by a jury in the superior criminal court today. A verdict of guilty of receiving the money stolen was returned against Mrs. Georgia Stuart.

Shaw was president of the A. W. Shaw Boot & Shoe corporation of Freeport, Me., and an official of the Cumberland Boot & Shoe Co., also of Freeport. He disappeared suddenly two or three months ago. An official of the Shaw Co. received a letter from Shaw, saying that he was despondent and was going to commit suicide by jumping overboard from a trans-Atlantic steamer. An investigation of the accounts of the two companies resulted in the charge being made that Shaw had stolen about $15,000 from the Shaw corporation and approximately $4,000 from the Cumberland company. A search was instituted for Shaw and his arrest in Los Angeles, Cal., followed.

Pending sentence Shaw's bail was increased from $5,000 to $12,000. He was unable to furnish the necessary bonds and was taken to the Charles street jail. Mrs. Stuart's bail remained the same and she was allowed to leave the court.

RICH DIVORCEE

MADE AN ODD ANTE-NUPTIAL PACT

PHILADELPHIA, June 11.—Through the filing here yesterday of an antenuptial agreement it became known that Mrs. Hulda Justice Steel, formerly of this city and the divorced wife of W. Berkeley Williams, of Baltimore, is about to become the bride of Alberto Tutino of Rome, a member of an old Italian family.

The agreement was signed at the American consulate at Naples in the presence of Consul William H. Handley and two of his assistants. It provides that the parties shall be lawfully married within six months of the signing of the agreement, which is dated April 26, 1912. Mrs. Steel immediately following the ceremony, agrees to insure her life for $50,000, the policy to be payable to the bridegroom. She also agrees to give Signor Tutino a yearly allowance of $5,000 ($1,500).

The only thing Signor Tutino has to do is to get married, but the agreement reads "In the event of a dispute or disagreement arising between the parties hereto, the adjudication shall devolve upon the courts of Pennsylvania."

100 YEARS OLD

MRS. SARAH O. COX FIRST CENTENARIAN IN CITY OF MALDEN

BOSTON, June 11.—Mrs. Sarah O. Cox of 213 Pleasant street, Malden, the oldest resident of that city, will round out 100 years of life today and a number of her friends and relatives will visit her to offer their felicitations. The event is one that has not occurred to any person in Malden before and Mrs. Cox feels extremely proud that she should have the distinction of being the first person to live to the age of 100 in her city.

She is in a rather feeble condition, however, and her faculties are not as active as they were a year or two ago. She has resided in the same house for the past eighty years. She was born in Boston, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Haven, and removed to Malden at the age of 1 year and has resided there ever since.

She was married to Lemuel Cox of Malden at the age of 22 years, and they had six children, all of whom are dead. Mrs. Cox is the sole survivor of ten children. She is a sister of the late Gilbert Haven of Boston.

THIEVES CAPTURED AFTER LONG WAIT

Policeman Hid in a Narrow Closet

NEW YORK, June 11.—After hiding and watching for three nights in a narrow closet in a store in which he did not even have the chance to move a fraction of an inch, the patience of Police Lieut. Henry Blatzheim, of Yonkers, was rewarded early yesterday morning, when he saw his quarry enter the place and open a safe. He waited until two men had hands full of money and then covered them.

For some time Adolph Schmidt, proprietor of a confectionery store, at No. 2 North Broadway, Yonkers, has been missing money each morning from his safe. The way in which the money disappeared was a mystery. He was positive that he was the only person who knew the combination, and he was equally certain that he locked it securely every night.

Finally he complained to the police. Lieutenant Blatzheim was assigned to catch the thieves or learn what became of the money. Immediately after Schmidt closed his place Friday night the policeman was admitted into the store. There was no place where he could hide himself and still keep his eye on the safe except a narrow closet in the rear. Neither that night nor Saturday night did his watch result in anything. Each morning, however, when he emerged from his hiding place he was stiffened as a result of his extremely close confinement.

Undaunted by his ill luck on the two previous nights, the policeman again hid himself Sunday night. Nothing happened all night, until about 5 o'clock yesterday morning, he heard the janitor enter through a rear door. The janitor then beelied himself about the place. A few minutes later Blatzheim, through the small hole, he had made in the closet, saw two men enter quietly. They went at once to the safe, and after manipulating the combination for a few seconds, the door swung open. Both men grabbed all the money they could see. As they were greedily looking for more Blatzheim burst forth from the closet and covered them with his gun.

He took them to the station, where they described themselves as Joseph and Anthony Bertone, brothers, of No. 106 School street, Yonkers. They both pleaded guilty later in court.

THREE SENTENCED

ON A CHARGE OF CARRYING RE-VOLVERS

NEW YORK, June 11.—Pasquale Adamo, twenty-six years old, of 229 Clinton street, Hoboken, pleaded guilty to carrying a loaded revolver in general sessions yesterday. Judge Foster, before whom he was arraigned, fined him $25.

In another part of the court William Busseler, thirty years old, of 164 Curtis avenue, the Bronx, and Giacomo Vassero, twenty-seven, of 401 West Thirty-eight street, pleaded guilty to a similar charge. The former was sentenced to one year in the penitentiary and the latter was sent to Elmira, by Judge Rosalsky.

In all three instances the men were first offenders, and said they were business men who carried the weapons for self-protection.

WOMAN RESCUED

FROM A BURNING BUILDING IN WOBBURN

WOBBURN, June 11.—Fire destroyed a 2½ story dwelling house in Holton street, near the Winchester line, at 1:30 yesterday afternoon, causing a loss of $3000.

The house was occupied by George W. Morton. Mrs. Morton had lighted a fire in the kitchen stove and had stepped outside. A few minutes later she heard cries of fire from a chamber occupied by her aged mother.

It was with difficulty that the aged woman was rescued from the burning building. An alarm was sent out from a Winchester box and the department of that town responded, but could do little, as the water had to be forced through 3000 feet of hose and the pressure was poor.

MAY RAISE TUITION FEE AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Matter Was Taken Up and Discussed by the School Board Last Night

The school board met in special session last night for the purpose of discussing with school representatives from the towns of Tyngsboro, Tewksbury and Dracut, the proposition to increase the high school tuition fee which is now $60. The men from the suburban towns felt that $60 was a pretty fair price to pay and called attention to the fact that only three out of eighty-four towns and cities in Massachusetts were charging more than $60 a pupil. They said, however, that if Lowell decided to raise the price there would be nothing left for the towns in question to do but to pay it.

The men heard on the matter of tuition were H. H. Bishop, Tewksbury, chairman of the district committee; Nelson E. Huntley, chairman, Dracut; Wilbur A. Patten, chairman, Tewksbury; S. H. Chase, superintendent of schools, Dracut; Tewksbury and Tyngsboro, and B. H. Currier, Tyngsboro. Principal William H. Doolley of the industrial school was present at the conference at the close of which Mr. Huntley of Dracut took occasion to remark that the parents of the children who attend the industrial school from Dracut, are delighted with the progress that the children are making.

Mr. Bishop was the first of the visitors to be heard. He expressed his appreciation of the board's courtesy in inviting him to the conference and said that he would like to know just why the board contemplated raising the price of tuition. In looking over the report of the state board of education he found, he said, out of 95 towns located similarly to his own and sending pupils to neighboring cities only three were charged more than $60 a pupil. He called attention to the fact that Tewksbury holds its town meeting in March and a sudden increase at this time of the year, he said, would put the town in a rather awkward position.

Chairman Farrington, replying to Mr. Bishop, said the rate is the same as it has been for the last 18 or 20 years and while the cost of education, he said, had increased during that time nothing has been allowed for the depreciation of school buildings or money invested in the plant. "While our expenses have been increasing," he said, "yours have remained the same."

Mr. Huntley of Dracut said that his town pays to Lowell about $2500 a year, tuition fees in the high school. Besides that, there are 13 day and 12 evening pupils in the industrial school which pay $1600, making a total of $4100. The state reimburses the town 50 per cent, on their industrial school pupils, but there is no reimbursement on the high school scholars sent. Indirectly, he said, the town of Dracut doing business in Lowell, helps to pay the taxes. The relations between the city and the town are so close that they ought not to want to get the best of one another, and he did not believe the board wanted to make money out of the town. He also reminded the board that when the pupils attend the high school only a part term, they pay for the whole term.

Superintendent Whitcomb said that Dracut has been an example in generosity, in that respect.

Mr. Patten of Tewksbury said that his town sends about 27 to the high school, and has three day and a number of evening pupils in the industrial school.

Supl. Chase said he was sure that the committees were willing to pay whatever it may cost the city of Lowell for the tuition of pupils in the high school. Personally, he was quite sure that the board did not want to make money from the tuition of pupils from towns outside. "We are educating these children," he said, "not so much for our own sake as for yours."

"The chances are ten to one that after they have finished their education they will work in the city of Lowell, though they may not sleep there. These three towns pay over $5000 to Lowell in tuition fees every year. While we are not asking for charity, you understand, of course, that the towns are more burdened for school purposes than are the cities. It has been suggested that only three places in the state, out of 94 towns and cities reported by the state board, charge over $60. That being the case, we could not help wondering why it should cost Lowell more than $60. The cost, instead of increasing, is decreasing from year to year. Five years ago the average cost was over $50. The last statement made to the board of education

A WORD TO PARENTS

Look After Your Child's Health During the Years of Most Rapid Growth.

School children who are nervous, who cannot sit quietly on a chair, who are always dropping things, and perhaps have twitching of the muscles of the face, need Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once.

Growing girls who become pale and thin, who have little appetites; who are out of breath after climbing the stairs, and who have palpitation of the heart after the least exertion, need them also.

Parents of such children should not delay the treatment. Nervous children do not develop properly. A sickly girlhood means a sickly womanhood and lack of blood during the years of most rapid growth means that enfeebled, listless, aimless men and women later on.

Pure, rich, red blood is what is needed. Strength for the nerves follows naturally. The time to correct the need of these is now, before any more harm is done.

Miss Carrie E. Hathaway, of North Houghton street, North Adams, Mass., was cured of anemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after her case was pronounced hopeless by her doctor. The statement of her cure is told by her mother, Mrs. A. A. Hathaway. "My daughter, Carrie, was confined to her bed for two years suffering from anemia. She seemed to have no blood and was as pale as a ghost. She was thin and did not weigh more than 100 pounds, had no strength or ambition and could not sit up. Her appetite was poor and she had difficulty in breathing. No one expected her to get well and our minister, before going on his vacation, came to bid her goodbye as he did not think she would live until his return. We spent hundreds of dollars but the doctor seemed to be puzzled and could not help her. She had been sick for over two years before I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. The pills gave her quick relief and cure after a fair trial. She has had no return sickness since and weighs 170 pounds. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful remedy and I cannot say enough in praise of them."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all druggists, or sent postpaid, on receipt of price, 60 cents per box; six boxes for $2.60 by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

really one of the best colored teams, naturally colored, that have been seen here in a long time. They have good voices, are graceful dancers and dress the act well. The Three Sherry Girls are as captivating as the wine whose name they bear. They are young, fair to behold, magnificently gowned and sing and dance well. They make four changes of gowns, behind the scenes, of course, during their act. The act, from the old world, do an exceedingly trampoline act which in other words is a bounding, aerial act of a circus nature. Harry Booker and company present the funny satire, "The Walking Delegate," in which Mr. Booker portrays the funny Irishman. The pictures are a big feature of the show in themselves. They include "The High Cost of Living," "The Texas Twins," "The Quest of Happiness." The bill for the last three days will include Polly Holmes and company in "A Mixed Affair," The Flying Russells, Ted and Clara Steele Wheeler and Goldie and Prof. Spica and his band in a new program.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

A splendid program is again being presented at the Merrimack Square theatre this week and judging from the warm reception each performer was given yesterday it is safe to say that the bill is so arranged as to satisfy every taste. There is plenty of music as well as a touch of comedy in every piece and all in all the entire program is a most pleasing one. The bill is headed by the Temple Players who present a very interesting and pleasing musical act entitled "In Japan."

The stage settings for the piece are more elaborate than ever and add a little to the satisfactory results attained in the presentation. The musical numbers are mostly all new and they are well rendered. Several fine chorus selections are also given, while there is a delightful exhibition of fancy dancing. The offering has many features that are distinctly apart from anything yet attempted by this clever company of entertainers.

Eddie Foley, a high class singing comedian, as heard to advantage in many delightful songs which are very witty. He is possessed of a fine voice and his act is neat and clever.

Howard Wolf, a character change artist, and a band of rare ability, entertains in several good numbers, and Miss Alice Bagley, in illustrated songs, is very clever.

The photo-plays for the first three days of the week are again among the best shown locally. "The Mystery of Room 28," "The Drummer Girl from Vicksburg," and others equally as good contribute in making the offering most

THEATRE VOYONS

One of the features of the program at the Theatre Voyons today is the fashion review covering over 25 different gowns, dating in conception all the way from hundreds of years before Christ to the present day. The extravagant styles of the courts of Louis XIV and Napoleon and the more recent crinoline and bustle are all seen on living models. The dramatic offering, "The Prayers of Manolo," was staged in Colorado, and it is full of the swing and dash of the west. "A Husband's Awakening" will please all, for in it Arthur Johnson, the Lubin star, and Miss Orm Hawley, a newcomer in picturedom, but a most acceptable one, appear.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Minnequa council was held last night. There was a large attendance and considerable business was transacted. It is expected that at the next meeting of the council that the great chief will be present and delegates will be elected to the state convention. At the conclusion of the meeting last night an entertainment program was carried out and refreshments were served by the following committee: Sisters Clara Donovan, Clara McPhail, Isora Hardy, Mary Tighe, A. M. Ryan, Ada Poff and George Frost.

General Fiske Lodge, 44, held its regular meeting last evening with a good attendance. Four names were received and two candidates initiated. Considerable routine business was transacted. It was announced that the lodge had won the banner for making the largest gain in membership in the district during the last quarter.

The next meeting will be held in Veritas hall on June 24. Committee in charge are Mrs. Arthur C. Smith, Mrs. Ober, Herbert Jones, Linwood Wing and Bertha B. Ober.

The Hibernians

The members of Division S. A. O. H. met in regular session last night with President Daniel F. Reilly in the chair. At the conclusion of the regular business four propositions for membership were received and three candidates were initiated. Various committees submitted reports of progress.

Names were proposed for delegates to the state convention which is to be held at Springfield. The delegates will be elected at the next meeting on June 24th. President Reilly commended the members for turning out in such large numbers at the funeral of Brother Michael O'Grady.

THE SOCIALISTS

HELD A STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL AND ENTERTAINMENT

A well attended strawberry festival and entertainment was held in Leather Workers' hall in Central street last night under the auspices of the Lowell socialist party. The entertainment consisted of musical numbers which were rendered in a manner which brought forth considerable applause.

Thomas B. Connolly of Boston gave a talk on "Socialism." Present conditions, including especially the high cost of living, were gone over in detail by the speaker.

The other contributors to the evening's program consisted of mandolin and guitar selections by Eina Eckland and Miss Grace Eckland; trio, Messrs. Chevalier, Hild and Carroll; duet, Messrs. Hild and Carroll; reading, Mrs. Emma Corbin; feats of magic, Thomas J. Knight.

TOBACCO POUCH

MADE BY CHIPPEWA CHIEF PRESENTED TO LOWELL MAN

Mr. Abelson Patenaude of Moody street is in receipt of a letter and a fine gift from his old friend, Mr. Dolore Lefolle formerly of this city and now of Manistique, Mich. In his letter Mr. Lefolle states he is getting along well in the west and is in a position to enjoy his favorite sport, hunting, for he is president of a large gun club, the Manistique Gun Club.

Accompanying the letter was a fine handworked tobacco pouch which was made of buckskin. Mr. Lefolle says he killed the buck himself and had the skin tanned by an old Indian chief, Wabengawew, chief of Chippewas, who claims he is 125 years old. The pouch was filled with some tobacco known as the Chippewas' favorite smoke, but it is too strong a smoke for the inhabitants of this part of the country, or at least for Mr. Patenaude, for one pipeful of it made him terribly sick.

Mr. Lefolle was a former employee of the Lawrence hosier of this city, where for years he worked in the knitting department. He left several years ago for the western states and settled in Manistique, Mich., where he is now manager of a large department store.

200 YEARS OLD

WHITMAN TAKES PART IN ABINGTON CELEBRATION

WHITMAN, June 11.—Whitman's part in the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the settlement of the old town of Abington, of which Whitman and Rockland were formerly a part, was taken today with demonstration by the school children of the three towns. Special cars brought the children from Rockland and Abington to Congregational church square, this town, where a procession was formed which passed through the principal streets to Whitman park. The exercises at the park included selections by three consolidated bands and addresses by Daniel R. Coughlan, John J. Geogan, former Gov. Long and Melvin S. Nash. This was followed by a two hours song program by 3000 children on Little Round Top hill.

A medal was awarded to the class in each town making the best general appearance in the parade.

FIRST PRIZE DRILL OF BOYS' BRIGADE

Held at the First Trinitarian Church

The first prize drill of the Boys' Brigade of the First Trinitarian church, Company F, Sixth Massachusetts regiment of the United Boys' Brigade of America was held last night in the vestry of the church and was very interesting, both for the spectators and those taking part. The judges were First Sergeant Robert G. Carlson, Quartermaster Sergeant William S. Miner and Sergeant George D. Crowell, all of Co. G of the Sixth Massachusetts regiment, M. V. M., and they awarded the prizes as follows: Sergeant William Messer, first prize, a silver medal; Sergeant Guy Taft, first honorable mention and Sergeant Ernest Hood, second honorable mention.

The officers of the Boys' Brigade who took charge of the company maneuvers were Capt. William B. McChaple, first lieutenant, Royal McCloughry and Second Lieutenant, Percy McMaster. The boys were put through all sorts of maneuvers which were very interesting and they showed that they knew something of the new ritual. The boys were put through the manual of arms with and without numbers, and this was followed by a fine exhibition from a picked squad from Co. G in command of Corporals James G. Roddy and E. A. DeLandes.

The evening's program was closed with the prize drill. Every boy tried to win his best, the smallest member of the company taking just as earnest a part in the drill as his older comrades, and as a consequence it was a stubborn fight from the beginning. However, after some time only three sergeants remained on the floor and finally the above decision was announced by Rev. George F. Kenngott in behalf of the judges.

The members of the picked squad from Company G who drilled under Corporals Roddy and DeLandes were Private Gustaf Anderson, C. A. Barton, W. J. Connolly, B. R. Matthews, P. Marcotte, C. A. Ganley and J. A. St. Pierre.

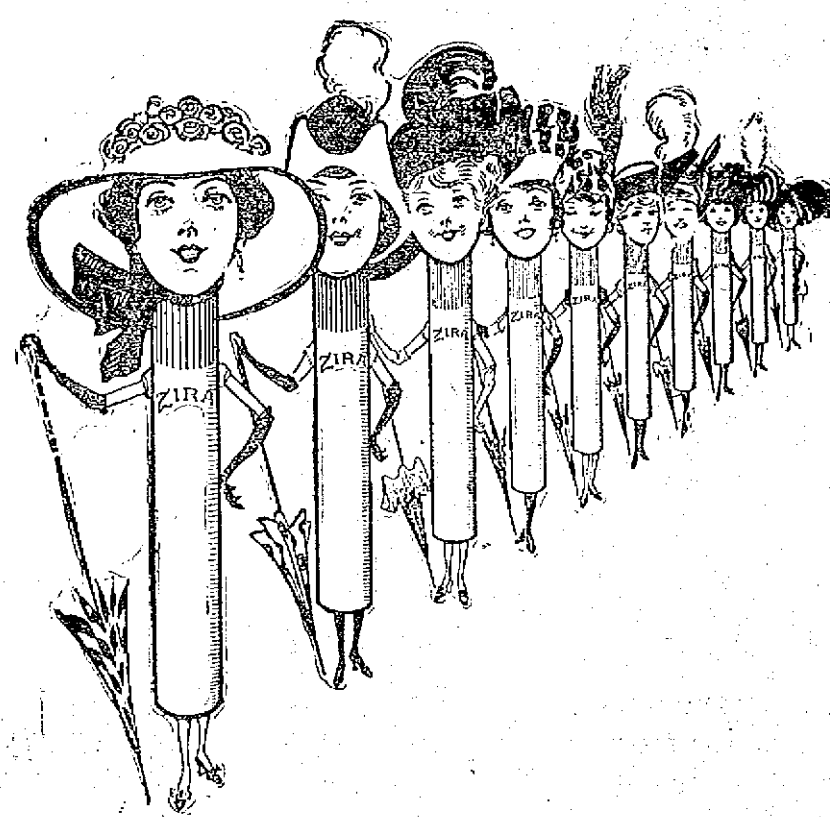

INJURIES FATAL

CHILD'S SKULL FRACTURED BY A FALL

BOSTON, June 11.—Anna Janosick, the 14 months' old daughter of Joseph Janosick of 15 School street, Cambridge, fell from a window of the second story of her home yesterday afternoon, a distance of 20 feet, receiving a fracture of the skull. She was taken to the Cambridge Relief hospital, where she died an hour later.

Anna had been sitting on a chair near the window while her mother was preparing supper. She climbed to the sill to look out, however, and in a second had lost her balance. Anna was the only child.

DYNAMITE WAS FOUND IN HOUSE IN BRIGHTON

Strike Sympathizer Under Arrest —He is Known to Police as an Agitator

BOSTON, June 11.—Three sticks of dynamite, 10 inches long and 1 1/2 inches thick, and several Mauser bullets wrapped in a newspaper, were found in the kitchen of the home of John H. Hutchinson, at 106 Tremont street, Brighton, last night, by Sgt. Thomas M. Mullen of Station 14. Hutchinson, who had been previously arrested and held upon suspicion by Sgt. Mullen because of certain threatening statements which were attributed to him, was subsequently charged with unlawfully keeping three sticks of dynamite in his possession.

Hutchinson is known to the police of the district as an agitator and he admitted after his arrest that he has been attending meetings of the strikers and strike sympathizers and also said that he is not inclined to be friendly to the railway company. He denied, however, having any knowledge of the dynamite in his home.

Capt. Forrest Hall of Station 14 said that the arrest of Hutchinson has no connection whatever with the explosion under a car on Commonwealth avenue, near Warren street, Allston, on Sunday night.

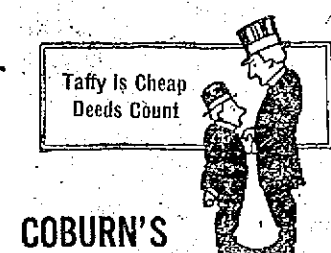

There was a big mass meeting of strikers, members of Local Union 553, in Parnell hall, at Chestnut Hill avenue and Washington street, Brighton, last evening, and the speakers were William French of Lynn, P. F. Sheehan of Brockton, A. O. Huston and P. J. O'Brien of Springfield. The principal speaker was P. F. Sheehan and he scored Gen. Hancock, president of the Boston Elevated, and discounted his statements sent out in circulars and through the press.

Hutchinson is said to have attended the meeting and after it was over the police were informed that he had stood on a street corner and had remarked, "Why wouldn't it be a good idea to blow up the reservoir and let the water flow down into Oak square and Chestnut Hill, Brookline, and flood the car barns at those two places?"

Sgt. Mullen at once placed Hutchinson under arrest on suspicion and then searched his house and found the dynamite.

GIFT TO PRINCETON

PRINCETON, N. J., June 11.—The board of trustees of Princeton University has announced that nine friends of the institution have together presented the university with 107 acres of land on the north side of Carnegie lake. The gift will make a notable addition to the Princeton grounds. The cash gifts for endowment totalled $25,205, the trustees announced, and $31,105 for current expenses. The class of '37 has notified the trustees that it will give $35,000 for the erection of a boathouse on Carnegie lake.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

THE DARING JOE DAWSON THE OLDEST AUTOMOBILE THE PLEASANT WEATHER

Tells His Own Story of Is Owned and Driven by Has Resulted in Increase
Indianapolis Race Abbe Gavois in Auto Business

Joe Dawson, winner of the 500 mile race at the Indianapolis Speedway on Memorial Day, is a quiet, boyish young man full of life and fun but capable of serious reasoning and never "exceeds the speed limit" in his life habits. He is a Y. M. C. A. member and a constant attendant. With his enormous prize, $35,000, won last Memorial Day, Dawson still lives at his Indianapolis home.

Here is his own story of the world's greatest speed battle:

"A man to win in any race, must know his gait."

"De Palma, who drove his marvelous European car, the Mercedes, which has twenty per cent greater piston displacement and costs fabulously more than my National car, put up a wonderful fight for first place. De Palma is a great driver, but when all the cheers died down and the smoke cleared away the cold fact remains that his car was not capable of going 500 miles at a winning speed and my National car did it."

I was even compelled to do two extra laps, 2 1/2 miles each, after I had won the race just for good measure to avoid any chances of mistakes in counting.

"I can not tell what won the race, as it was a combination of things that decided the victor in this, the greatest test of man and machine ever held since machines of any kind have been built. My record of 500 miles in 351 minutes and 6 seconds stands as a record for any kind of mechanism for that distance. No other man alive has travelled that far as fast as I did. I do not boast about it, but simply call attention to the fact that all the big powerful expensive cars, driven by drivers as experienced as I am, only one car won first place. It was the verdict of the white heat test."

"I was assisted by Don Herr who relieved me at the wheel for almost 50 miles while I rested in the repair pit. Instead of watching the race while I was resting, and instead of keeping myself in a nervous strain, I flung my tired body onto the grass and relaxed entirely. I shut my eyes and tried not to hear the noise of the cars roaring past on the track. Then when I went back into the fray I was much rested. Of course the car never had a rest, but my body is not made of vanadium and chrome nickel steel like the car is. I am just human."

"From past experience I never give up hope until a race is over. I knew De Palma was driving a wonderful race ahead of me in his Mercedes, and just behind me in the Fiat came my next closest rival. There I was in a medium priced American car, a wedge between the foreign Mercedes and the foreign Fiat car. But I am proud to say that I did take orders from the manager of the National team from the repair pit. I got a signal along toward the latter part of the race to stop down my speed. I really did not want to, because I was confident that my car could stand the pace I was going, but I obeyed and dropped from eighty to seventy miles an hour. It was not long after that when I got the signal to 'let her go.' That was the time De Palma's car began to go to pieces. I then began to go at the rate of 87 miles an hour. If I had never slowed down at all I could have broken the record easily much greater than I did. No, I was not so tired. My arms and shoulders were rather sore, but the tide was not tidesome. The mental strain was the hardest part. I had to keep a close watch all the time for fear some other car I was passing might crash into me. My car was not repaired any, no water was put in the radiator, but three spark plugs were replaced. I wish I could run the race over again and I would certainly drive even faster."

Abbe Gavois, a village priest at Rainneville, near Amiens, Paris, France, is proud of the fact that he possesses the oldest automobile in the world, says the Automobile. He bought it in 1884 from the Mayor of Troyes, in the Champagne district, who had purchased it new from the Panhard-Levassor factory on December 4, 1891. From that day to the present time the car has never missed a day on the road, and after 21 years' rough service the car has just undergone its first serious overhaul, and is again ready for 21 years' hard labor.

It is not sentiment but sound practical economy which causes Abbe Gavois to prefer his old two-seater Panhard to a more modern vehicle. Its speed of 12 miles an hour is quite sufficient for his requirements; its steel tires never cause him delay on the road and they have never called for a cent in upkeep. The two-cylinder motor of 2.7 by 4.5 inches bore and stroke, uses very little gasoline, although it is fed from the original carburetor, bigger than one of the cylinders of the motor, and has to use gasoline for the hot tube ignition. Taking into consideration taxes, depreciation, renewals, gasoline and oil, the village priest declares that his motoring costs him less than a cent a mile, and he defies any modern manufacturer to supply him with a car that can be run at a lower cost.

The old car is interesting as being one of the best examples of the type from which the modern car has developed.

As the result of publicity which has been given this old car, it has been secured to figure in the motor museum organized by The Motor in Oxford street, London, during the present London season. As soon as the exhibition is over it will be returned to its clerical owner and again take up its daily work in his scattered parish. All offers of purchase have been firmly refused, the priest's inviolable reply being "give me something as cheap and as reliable and I will consider it." But until now he has not been shown a 1911 or 1912 product which, taken all in all, promised to serve him as well and as cheaply as his old buggy.

ENGRAVERS' CONVENTION

BOSTON, June 11.—Trade methods were discussed today by the delegates from coast to coast attending the 16th annual convention of the International Association of Photo-engravers. President Houser of Chicago presided. The women who came to the convention had an automobile ride to Lexington and Concord, where they visited historic places.

After several weeks of inclement weather Old Sol got the better of Jupiter Pluvius, and the former's rays spread forth in a manner which resulted in the drying of the roads and made the use of automobiles practical, especially for touring purposes. The trucks which are used by the local and suburban people have not been interrupted by the heavy rains, but when it came to pleasure trips there was a different question to consider, for unless one owned a town car or limousine he was discouraged by the driving rains.

Inasmuch as the roads in and around Lowell, and those which lead to the popular points, are either macadamized or oiled and are in good condition, those who wish to take a side trip find that the country roads at the present time are nothing more or less than muddy roads with deep ruts where it is necessary to use chains.

All of the roads leading out of Lowell are in fairly good condition but on the side roads it is necessary to drive slowly and then the car is snattered with mud and the thoroughfares are dangerous.

Many automobilists who intended to make trips during the past few weeks decided not to do so owing to the poor condition of the roads, believing that it would be preferable to use the steam trains or electric cars.

During the past week the weather has been excellent with the exception of Sunday and today, when the strong winds made touring very bad.

Those who made trips on Sunday and Monday certainly found that the wind was very strong and many of them wished that they had never started. There are several local automobilists who are wearing wind-blown faces at the present time, due to the trips which they took.

Prosperous Business

The pleasant weather of the past week has been instrumental in the sales of many cars through the different local agencies. There has been a depression in the business at late but now with the weather conditions more agreeable for the sale of cars the dealers are wearing broad smiles. There were many sales made during the past week. The names of the persons to whom cars have been delivered will be given below, but there were many sales made wherein the purchasers do not want to have their names given.

Stevens-Duryea

Why?

Why have practically all the makers of fine cars, after holding off for several years, at last come 'round to making six-cylinders?

Why have nearly all makers copied one or another part of the original Stevens-Duryea form of construction?

Why were we "wrong" years ago and "right" now?

The world has come 'round to our way of thinking; that's all.

Mile on the Job

Mr. Hale, the hustling salesman of the Lowell Automobile corporation, who is ever on the job, reports a number of sales during the past week. He sold a model 35 Buick to John Foster of Andover street and although the car has not as yet been delivered Mr. Foster has had several trials and is fast becoming an expert in operation. It is expected that within a few days he will be driving his own car with his own license tags attached on the front and rear of the machine.

Dr. George L. Van Deursen, with offices at 17 Kirk street and residing at 1039 Middlesex street, has also purchased a model 39 Buick, five passenger car. This is a beauty and the doctor should be proud of the purchase he has made.

A model 21 Buick, with a capacity of five passengers, has also been sold to Walter Billings of Wilton, N. H., through the agency of the Lowell Automobile corporation.

Mr. C. Herbert Peters of the Lowell Weaving Co. has purchased a model 34 Buick roadster.

Mr. Hale has also sold another touring car and two more roadsters of the Buick model, but he does not desire to divulge the names of the purchasers until the cars have been delivered.

Speaking about pleasure cars it must not be forgotten that the Buick makes a specialty of commercial cars. At the present time in the storehouse there is a one-ton truck with a stake body. It has a wheel base of 100 inches and is finished in red with a black running gear. There are hooks on the side which make it very convenient for the use of persons who wish to carry ladders, or pipes, such as carpenters and plumbers.

In conversation with a representative of The Sun, Mr. Hale said that business has been very good of late, the only fault being that the orders are coming in so fast that he cannot secure delivery fast enough to accommodate prospective customers.

The Moody Bridge Garage

The Oakland car is as popular as ever, and Arthur Cummins of the Moody Bridge garage, kept busy making demonstrations in this city, Lawrence and other towns in the vicinity. He has made sales during the past week but as previously stated does not care to divulge the name of the purchasers until the cars have been delivered. The only sale he would give out this week was that of a roadster car of John Farrell, the well-known auctioneer.

Some Fire Pumps

"Since the Brown Impulse and the Mayo pumps were placed on the market there has been a noticeable decrease in the sales of notices and lineaments for lame backs," said Joseph H. Houghton of A. and H. tire shop, today in speaking to the writer, while the latter was watching a tire being inflated with a Brown Impulse pump. "Looking on" continued Joe, "is the hardest piece of work which the automobilist has to do once he has purchased one of these pumps. To the untutored tire pumping is considered a small part of automobilism, but to his more experienced brother it is numbered among the hardest tasks which the automobilist has to face. It is quite a laborious thing and a great time consumer, to inflate a tire. Along with the labor and time lost, another aggravating thing is to be touched by a crowd of curious on-lookers who seem to have the idea that a car is stopped in the highway for inspection or else suggestions.

Dr. Wells' New Reo

Dr. O. V. Wells of Westford was seen in the streets of this city today with his new model 8, four passenger detachable tonneau Reo, which was delivered to him Sunday by George F. White, agent for the Reos in this city. Dr. Wells wanted to get his car as soon as possible, and when word was received from Boston Saturday night that the car had arrived Mr. White left immediately. He went by train and upon inquiring at the New England agency of the Reo learned that the car was in Roxbury, where it had been placed in a garage after being unloaded from the car. He arrived at the garage shortly after 11:30 o'clock. The car was taken out, oiled and filled with gasoline and started Lowellward. The journey from the Roxbury garage to Mr. White's home in North Chelmsford took just one hour and nineteen minutes.

The International Cars

Two more International cars were sold by the E. E. Smith Co., the past week. Jeremiah Sheehan, the well-known grocer of North Billerica, purchased an air cooled model and Michael Lallas, a farmer, residing in Chelmsford, bought a water cooled car, for general farming usage.

BARRETT ASKED TO REPLY TO QUESTIONS OF MR. DONAHUE MUNICIPAL COUNCIL SO VOTED

The hearing on the charges brought by Commissioner Andrew E. Barrett against Andrew G. Stiles, city treasurer and collector of taxes, for incapacity in office was begun in the municipal council at city hall shortly after 2 o'clock this afternoon, the hearing having been postponed from 10 o'clock yesterday forenoon.

The mayor opened the hearing by reading Commissioner Barrett's charges against Mr. Stiles. The charges were as follows:

Lowell, Mass., May 21, 1912.
To the Municipal Council, of the City of Lowell:

Pursuant to the revised laws of the commonwealth of Massachusetts and all acts in amendment thereof, I hereby prefer the following charges against Andrew G. Stiles, the duly elected city treasurer of the city of Lowell, to wit:

That he has not conformed to the obligations of his office, nor has he in any way lived up to the oath of said office as city treasurer of the city of Lowell, in that he has in no wise conformed to the laws of the city of Lowell, nor has he acted with that diligence and capacity in marshaling the assets of the city of Lowell. That he has not in any manner accounted for the so-called Huntington hall fund, nor the Nesmith trust fund, nor the Tyler fund, all of which, according to the expert accountant, Mr. Rex, have disappeared.

Wherefore, it seems for the best interests of the city of Lowell, and for the proper conservation of the city's funds, that said Andrew G. Stiles should be removed from the office of city treasurer of the city of Lowell. As a member of the municipal council, I therefore embody in this writing the following specific charges:

First: Andrew G. Stiles has not properly conserved the funds of the city of Lowell.

Second: That he has so conducted the office of city treasurer as to confuse and embarrass the municipal council.

Third: That certain collections which ought to have been made in favor of the city, but by his neglect and indifference have become outlaid and of no benefit to the city.

Fourth: And that for some reason unknown to the municipal council he has negligently permitted certain indebtedness due the city to remain uncollected for a long period of time, without any effort on his part to collect the same.

Wants Specific Charges

D. J. Donahue, counsel for Mr. Stiles, said he had been given to understand that specific charges would be made and a copy provided counsel for defendant. He spoke of the first meeting having to do with the charges which was held June 10, and said he had been unable to obtain specific charges until Saturday afternoon, May 31. "Then," said Mr. Donahue, "I prepared a list of interrogatories and forwarded them to the city solicitor's office. I have been unable to obtain any reply to them. My interrogatories, and I am sure they are very fair, were as follows:

INTERROGATORIES.
Propounded by the respondent in the above entitled charges to be answered by Andrew E. Barrett, alderman of the city of Lowell.

First Interrogatory: State, giving the date and facts, wherein respondent has not conserved the city's funds.

Second Interrogatory: State what specific act or acts, giving date and facts, that have confused and embarrassed the municipal council.

Third Interrogatory: What collections have been lost by treasurer's neglect, giving date and persons owing the same.

Fourth Interrogatory: What certain indebtedness remains uncollected, with no effort on treasurer's part to collect the same.

Andrew G. Stiles, Treasurer.
By His Attorney, D. J. Donahue.

"Jumble of Words"

Mr. Donahue called the charges against Mr. Stiles a "jumble of words," and claimed that the charges were not specific.

"I am prepared to show," said Mr. Donahue, "that the Nesmith fund was spent 12 years ago. The second charge of Mr. Barrett's, Mr. Donahue said he would like to know who of the municipal council were 'confused and embarrassed.' 'Surely it couldn't be Mr. Barrett,' he said, 'the man who brought the charges and the Moses who knows it all.'"

Mr. Donahue said he would be ready to go ahead forty-eight hours after receiving answer to his interrogatories. "I ask that they be answered," he said, "in order to give me a fair opportunity to explain my case."

J. Joseph Hennessy

City Solicitor J. Joseph Hennessy said he was surprised at the statement of his brother, Mr. Donahue, to the effect that he did not have time to prepare his case.

"He had ten days in which to prepare and that, I think, was ample time. There is no one who can give this municipal council any more information than can the city treasurer, himself. He is the man who should know and should be able to give the information that is sought by the city council. The language in the specifications is very plain and easy of understanding. There is no reason why there should be any further delay in this matter."

Retracts His Request

Mr. Donahue renewed his request for more time and charged that if it was not allowed him it would be apparent to everybody that his client was being unfairly treated.

Commissioner Barrett

Commissioner Barrett objected to any further delay and renewed his charges against the city treasurer. He said that the management of that office had been aliphed for years. Mr. Barrett took exceptions to statements made by counsel for the defendant and said it was necessary that this matter should not be delayed, for tomorrow, he said, there would be before the legislature the city's appeal to borrow beyond its debt limit.

"Does anybody in this city today, believe," asked Mr. Barrett, "that if Mr. Stiles was to go before the voters for re-election he would be elected? No, because the people of Lowell are awake to conditions here and what I want to see is the city treasury of the city of Lowell rescued from improper influences, and it is up to the members of this council to do their duty or be branded as the dog in the photograph advertisement listening to the 'master's voice.'"

Mr. Donahue asked permission to reply again to Mr. Barrett, but Mayor O'Donnell said he thought further argument was unnecessary and believed it would be better to put the question of more time, as requested, to the council.

The mayor then put the question and the council voted that Alderman Barrett prepare a more specific statement in reply to the defendant's first interrogatory, Mr. Barrett voting against.

YOUTH ARRESTED THREE TIMES IN DAY

Held in $1000 Each on Two Charges

NEW YORK, June 11.—Life yesterday was just one arrest after another for young Le Roy Halamka of 1315 Clay avenue, the Bronx.

With his father, Joseph Halamka, a wealthy retired furrier, he went to Morrisania court and was arraigned before Magistrate Freschi on a charge of grand larceny.

George H. Janss, a real estate agent of 140th street and Third avenue, said young Halamka had disappeared more than a year ago with $700 which Janss had entrusted to him to be invested in United States Rubber company stock. The warrant for the arrest of Halamka was issued last December, but the police did not find him until a week ago. Yesterday he was held in $1000 bail for examination Thursday. The eldest Halamka furnished the bail and was leaving the court room with his son when Clyde E. Black, treasurer of the Motor Finance company of 346 West 59th street, said the young man had secured a $1000 automobile from them by giving a chattel mortgage on property, and that the company has been unable to foreclose because of the disappearance of the young man. On this charge Halamka was paroled in the custody of his father.

Again they started away and reached the street this time before Detective Gallagher stepped up to the young man and served a warrant charging him with having beaten Hotel Avon, 30th street and Lexington avenue, out of a bill for $150 last year. Halamka was arrested and taken to Yorkville court in the custody of the detective. After furnishing another $1000 bail he was released until today.

FUNERALS

DRISCOLL.—The funeral of Mrs. Johanna Driscoll took place yesterday from her home, 14 Lane street, and was largely attended. High mass of requiem was celebrated at 9:30 o'clock at St. Peter's church by Rev. Fr. Heffernan. The choir, under the direction of Mr. James E. Donnelly sang the Gregorian mass, Mrs. J.W. McKenney presiding at the organ. The bearers were Charles F. Keyes, Henry J. Keyes, Cornelius O'Neil and John O'Neil. Among the floral tributes were a large wreath from the family, wreath of roses, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sullivan and Miss Catherine Sullivan; large wreath of roses, employees Trem-

MAKE YOUR OUTING A GRAND TOUR OF THE WEST

Few people realize the immensity of the west. You travel more than 5000 miles to make a circle of this wonderful territory. Think of swinging out through the St. Paul-Minneapolis gateway, speeding over the Dakotas, going on at Yellowstone Park if you like, traveling on among majestic mountains and mile-deep valleys, lingering in the wealthy fruit lands, and on to Seattle and Portland to sell the rose-hedgeon of the cool north-coast summer. Stay there awhile and then take your train again—southward this time—viewing the mighty forests of Washington and Oregon, craning your neck at Shasta and the wild beauties of the Sierras until you have breathed the welcome spirit of San Francisco and Los Angeles. Then turning homeward, stopping at Salt Lake City and continuing through the magnificent Colorado Rockies to Denver and a safe arrival home.

Can you think of a grander outing to clear the cobwebs from your brain? The cost is comparatively moderate. To answer your questions, deliver your railroad and select car tickets to you, help you select other routes, going or coming back if you desire, arrange for stop overs, etc., and I'll also send you our latest illustrated folders. KATMAI VOLCANO WAS IN ERUPTION

Two Villages Are Buried Under Ashes

KODIAK, Alaska, June 9.—Via tug to Seward, June 11.—Kodiak and Woody Island villages are buried under a foot of ashes as a result of the eruption of Katmai volcano beginning Thursday afternoon and lasting 48 hours. No lives have been lost here but many other settlements near the volcano must have suffered indescribably.

The revenue cutter Manning was in port here when the eruption began and furnished refuge for all the inhabitants of the town, 500 persons, doubtless saving many lives. The Manning is now serving distilled water and government rations to the destitute people, the water supply having been polluted and springs filled with ashes. The naval wireless station was destroyed by fire and the Manning's wireless equipment is too weak to work with Cordova. Despatches are being sent by tug to Seward with an appeal for all available craft to come to the assistance of the people in the vicinity.

YALE STUDENTS TOOK THE PLACES OF STRIKING WAITERS

NEW HAVEN, June 11.—Sixty-seven waiters employed at the Hotel Felt went on a strike last night at the supper hour because the management had not acceded to their demands for certain improvements in working conditions.

The action of the waiters was anticipated and the management had in waiting 70 Yale students who had volunteered their services. Some of the students are sons of wealthy men, and many are prominent in college life. The hotel management was not embarrassed by the walkout.

The striking waiters do not complain of their wages, but allege that they are served with inferior food, and that their quarters are poor. The move is also in sympathy with the cooks who have complained of their working quarters.

The waiters telegraphed to the union headquarters at New York and officials of the organization came here last night to confer with the strikers.

LICENSE COMMISSIONER CHOICE MAY BE SUBJECT OF INQUIRY OWING TO BARRETT'S STATEMENT

Alderman Brown rather forced the issue with Alderman Barrett at the meeting of the municipal council yesterday afternoon when he moved that the city solicitor be instructed to present Alderman Barrett's statement, that the recent election of a license commissioner was "an auction rather than an election," to the district attorney and that Mr. Barrett be summoned to appear before the grand jury and prove his statements.

The motion was seconded by Alderman Cummings, and was carried, Mayor O'Donnell voting against.

The preliminaries to the hearing on the charges made by Alderman Barrett against the city treasurer had just been completed when Alderman Brown took the floor and spoke to a question of privilege. Mr. Barrett had said in the course of his remarks relative to the charges against the city treasurer that if the city council did not take action it would be branded as the servant of an improper influence.

Considerable interest was manifested in the hearing on the charges preferred against the city treasurer by Alderman Barrett, but Alderman Brown's speech and motion relegated the Stiles hearing to a back seat so far as interest was concerned.

"It would appear from the statement of my brother commissioner, Mr. Barrett," said Mr. Brown, "that if members of this council other than Mr. Barrett do not agree with him in the matter of the city treasurer's hearing, they will be indicted, tried and convicted before the people as bearing a label."

"We are all over seven and we know what that label is. Mr. Barrett made a statement in this chamber that might have gone unheeded in a campaign speech, but it must not go unheeded here. I refer to the recent election of a license commissioner and of that election Mr. Barrett said it was an auction rather than an election. His statements here this afternoon have been along that same line."

"On the day that Mr. Barrett made his auction statement I did not say anything, for I understood that he was going to add to his statement later. I have waited long and patiently, but I have not heard any more from Mr. Barrett about the auction and the nearest approach he has made was

this afternoon.

"I want to say that if there is any truth in what he has insinuated the members of the council who voted for the official in question should not be allowed to retain their seats in this chamber, and it is up to Alderman Barrett to prove his statements. It is the duty of Alderman Barrett to go to the grand jury and see that proper action is taken and I move, Mr. Mayor, that the city solicitor be instructed to present Mr. Barrett's statements to the district attorney and that Mr. Barrett be summoned before the grand jury to prove his statements."

The motion was seconded, as heretofore stated, by Alderman Cummings, and became a vote.

Messrs. Cummings and Donnelly, as well as Mr. Brown, took exceptions to Mr. Barrett's statement about the "label" and the "master's call," and said that they were not being dictated to by anybody or influenced in any way.

"No man in Lowell can tell me what to do," said Mr. Cummings, "and I am warning no man's collar but my own."

Mr. Donnelly said he was elected by the people of Lowell and that he was doing the best he could to serve their best interests. "I am not influenced by any man or set of men," he said.

BOY'S CLOTHES

WORN BY GIRL WHO RAN AWAY YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, June 11.—Sixteen-year-old Carrie Blanchard, of Amawalk in Westchester county, was caught running away from home in her brother's clothes yesterday. Her long golden hair betrayed her.

She tired of the farm and arranged to run away with Miss Alma Wood, of Millerton. They were to meet at Brewster and take a Harlem railroad train to Manhattan to see the White Way. Carrie had tried to run away before, but her plans were spoiled by neighbors. She decided yesterday to dress up in her brother's coat, trousers and cap, so nobody would know her.

When her disguise was complete she took a suit case filled with her own clothing and stole away. Fred Asher, a watchman, saw her running away. As she ran her golden locks began to shake down from her cap. Asher followed, and when he caught up he recognized her. She pleaded to be allowed to go, but Asher took her back to her parents.

POLICE RIDICULE M'KENNA STORY

Concerning the Death of Ekstrom Child

NEW YORK, June 11.—While Joseph J. McKenna spent the day in the Tombs yesterday, consulting with his lawyer as to his defense of the charge that he strangled little Sigrid Ekstrom in the cellar of her home, 1077 Ogden avenue, Captain Price and his squad of detectives were busily engaged hunting for additional evidence to be used against the man.

The police ridicule the story McKenna tells as to how the child came to her death. They cannot reconcile the fact the autopsy developed, that the child had died of strangulation and that one of the smaller bones in the neck was fractured, and McKenna's statement that the child slipped from his hands while he was tossing her to the ceiling in play.

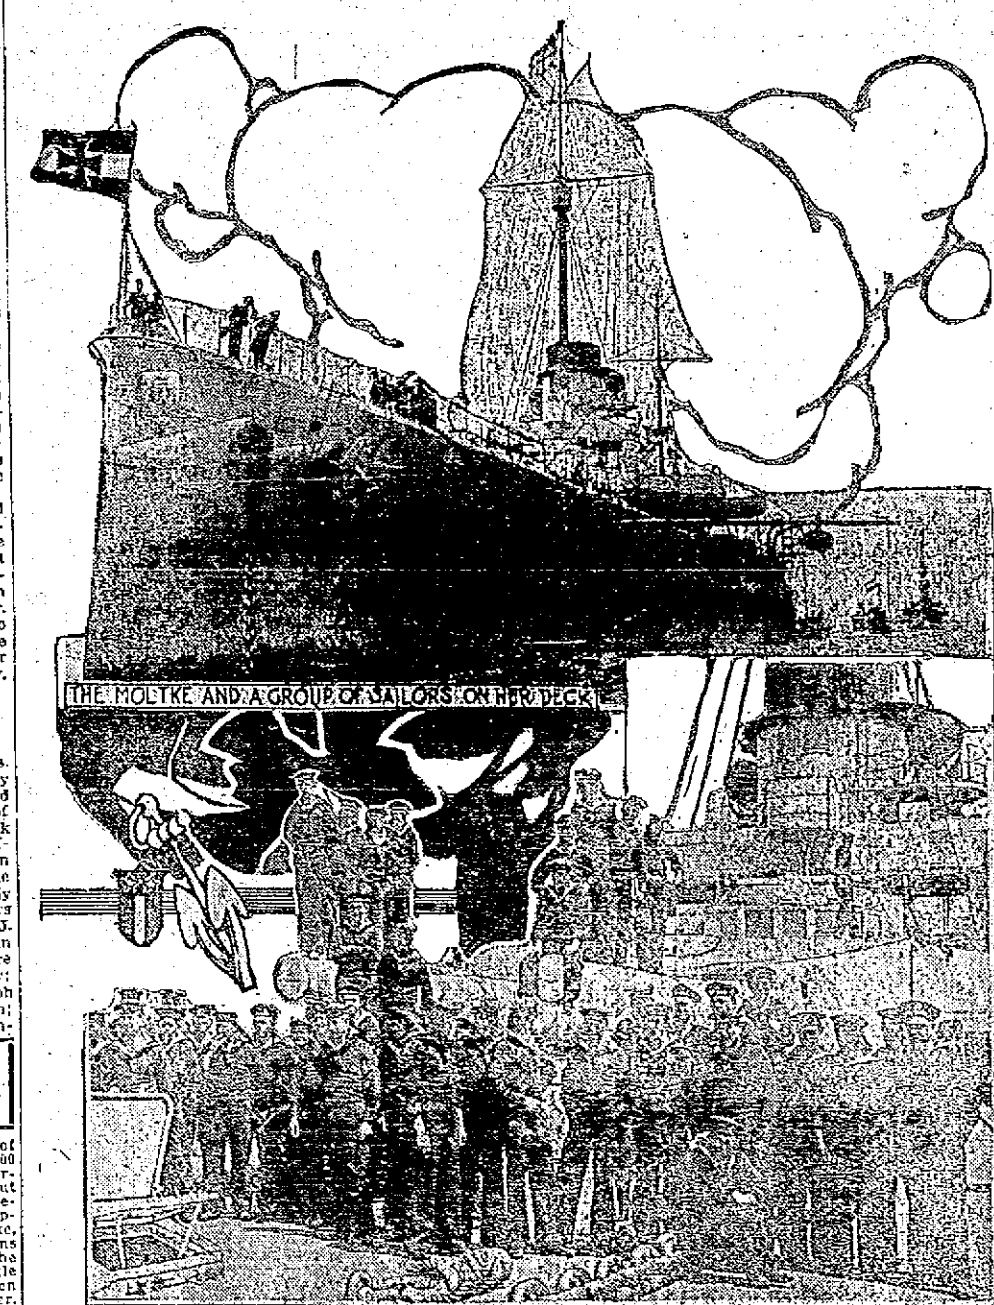

Dr. Riegelmann, coroner's physician, who performed the autopsy, declares that it is absolutely impossible for her to have been injured in the way in which she was if she had merely fallen to the floor. He is also positive that her skull was not fractured.

The police did not make any further attempt yesterday to interview the prisoner in the Tombs. They feel certain that they have gained enough to hold him. Asst. Dist. Atty. Theron B. Strong, who also heard the man's story, as he told it himself, was positive evidence against him.

The inquest will be held this afternoon before Coroner Shogut in the Bronx.

German Fleet and the German Sailors Are Enthusiastically Welcomed by Americans

NEW YORK, June 11.—The German warships now anchored in the North river drew a bigger crowd to Riverside drive on their arrival than came on any day of the week that Admiral Osterhaus stretched the great Atlantic fleet from Fifth street to the Spuyten Duyvil, a bigger crowd even than came when President Taft reviewed the armada. Police officers estimated that 1,600,000 persons viewed the German squadron and compared the Moltke with the American battleships of the escript—the Louisiana, Kansas, South Carolina and New Hampshire. The visiting squadrons of other nations have excited curiosity and sometimes admiration, but without any doubt no warship that ever loomed in the river attracted so much attention or praise. The Moltke cost completed the enormous sum of $10,491,000, or more than twice the appropriation for the German navy in 1871. Her registered displacement is 22,632 tons. She measures 610 feet long and 95 feet 9 inches beam, has a draft of 25 feet 9 inches and carries a main battery of 19 11-inch 50 calibre rifles, throwing a shell weighing 760 pounds and having practically the same penetrative

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

There is much speculation as to what the democratic platform will be. The leading principles of the democratic party are well known. They include a tariff for revenue only, an income tax, reciprocity and such a general revision of the tariff as will break down the monopolies now maintained by the various trusts of the country. Free sugar will be a leading item in the democratic platform, while the general demand for free trade in the leading necessities of life must be provided for. The high cost of living makes it essential that the tariff bars must be taken down at certain points in order to admit free the commodities which are now controlled by trusts, and which sell for the most unreasonable prices.

Most of the burdens which the people have to endure from the high cost of living result directly or indirectly from the high tariff wall that fosters the trusts enabling them while protected against foreign competition, to stamp out domestic competition.

The extortions of the trusts and combines are limited only by the ability of the people to pay. The Sherman anti-trust law must be made more specific, and more easy of enforcement. As it has been administered by the United States government and interpreted by the United States supreme court, it is found to be of very little use. Its application in the Standard Oil case and others has shown that under a different form of organization the trusts can still continue to do business without being amenable to the penalties of the Sherman law which under various interpretations has been reduced to a sham and a humbug.

BRIGHT BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Reports from the mercantile agencies show that there is a steady upward tendency in business, and that the prospect of better business during the coming summer and fall is unusually good. It is now reasonably certain that this year will not be subject to the business depression usually incident to the presidential year. The country is not so much disturbed at the prospect of a change in the political administration as when it was a question between high protection and free trade. There is now no party in favor of free trade. The democratic party favors a tariff or revenue only and a reduction of the duty on trust controlled articles.

The unreasonable weather of late has affected farming unfavorably. But the greater amount of trade as shown by the exports and imports is still quite encouraging. For the 49 weeks ending June 6th the wheat sent abroad amounted to 169,823,336 bushels against 170,186,216 in the like period last year. Other statistics dealing with bank clearings, railroad earnings and the iron business, which is regarded as a good business barometer, also indicate a very encouraging tendency. The prospect, therefore, is for a good season's business provided it be not murred by strikes and industrial conflicts that mean business disaster to all lines of industry.

EVADING PAYMENT OF TAXES

Our residents of foreign nationality should remember that they come here to engage in our industries, find our schools, our health department, our police and fire service all in perfect working order. They benefit by all these and should not object to paying the ordinary taxes assessed which are very light. It is reported, however, that the consulars who have tax bills for many of those who speak foreign languages are wholly unable to collect or to find the men to whom the bills are made out. That is a reflection upon the nationality of the men who do this, and it is bound to get them into trouble sooner or later. If any foreign element of our population practices this evasion of law they will be set down as dishonest and as lacking the stuff necessary for good citizenship. It has been suggested that collectors who speak the languages of the foreign elements be employed to collect, but nobody wants the job, for the reason that the foreigner who would push his own nationality for payment of taxes would take very serious risks. This is not true of all the foreign elements but is true of some, and these are the people who make the trouble and discredit their fellow countrymen.

ROOSEVELT TO FIGHT THE MAJORITY

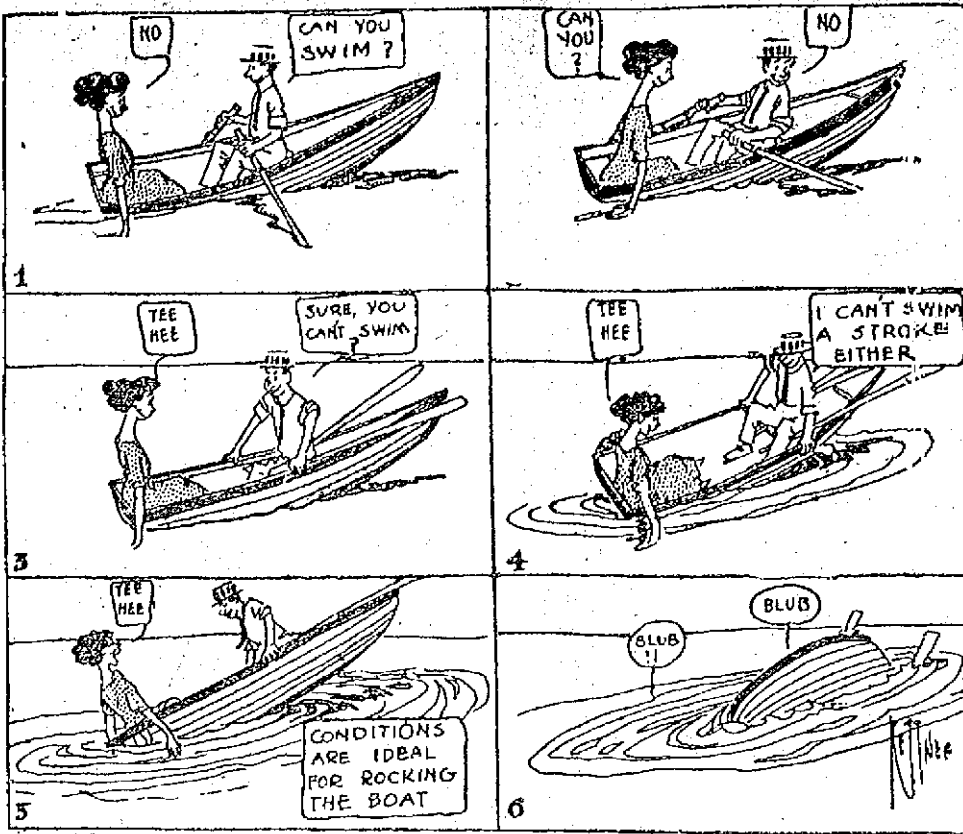

In the fight for delegates, the people seem to forget that Roosevelt after promising not to be a candidate came out and openly violated his pledge, announcing his candidacy. He appeals to the people not to give Taft a second term that he may get a third term in violation of long established custom. What was refused to Grant and every other candidate who sought it is now claimed by Colonel Roosevelt in the role of demagogue appealing to the prejudices of the people against the bosses. The masses in this country seem very susceptible to demagogues at the present time and particularly to the Roosevelt brand. Whether they will put this man in the saddle to give an exhibition in rough riding over the rights of the people and the security of the courts remains to be seen. The Colonel has already indicated that he will adopt some rebellious methods, and he is expected to bolt if he does not get the nomination at Chicago. That will prove him to be a dangerous man as the candidate who violates his own promises, established custom and even majority rule would be a dictator pure and simple. We cannot afford to make such a man president.

OUR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Lowell is having its difficulties with the state board of education over the industrial school established there, of which William H. Dooley, formerly principal of the local industrial school, is principal. It will be remembered that Lawrence had its difficulties in getting money from the state to support the school here, and now Lowell is being criticized by the state authorities for not doing enough for the school and on this ground the state declines to share its part of the expense.—Lawrence Telegram.

There is really no justification for the above item. The state board is looking to the future demands of the school and wants some assurance that they will be provided for. The school thus far has given entire satisfaction to the state board and indeed to the local school board. It is becoming so popular that a new building will be needed in the near future. That is what the state board is looking forward to, and it is justified in notifying the Lowell school board that the present accommodations will soon be wholly inadequate.

The department of agriculture has now no Dr. Wiley to fight for pure food, and consequently we may expect to find benzene of soda freely used in the canning factories. Already it has been found that 26,000 pounds of embalmed beef have been sent to the marines in Cuba on the cruiser Prairie. The naval officers described the stuff as filthy and diseased, and this is what was intended for the American sailors. Dr. McCabe, who drove out Dr. Wiley, insisted that the beef was all right but the naval inspector was ready to prove his charges.

THE BOAT-ROCKING FOOL

Seen and Heard

Here are a few suggestions that will do no harm to read:

Don't allow your business to become your master.

Don't discuss business at home, or in social life.

Take a cool shower bath and vigorous exercise before an open window the first thing upon arising.

Parake of a very light breakfast an hour after arising, eliminating tea, coffee, bread, potatoes and meat.

Walk to your business, if possible; breathe deeply.

Eliminate woolen underwear; dress as lightly as possible.

Take an hour for luncheon, omit tea, coffee, tobacco, beer and sweets.

Keep your office well ventilated.

Secure competent help and trust them.

Love some one or some thing—a dog will do.

Leave your office early enough to walk home, or at least part of the way.

Masticate your food infinitely fine and by all means—do not overeat. This is the crowning sin of the civilized table. We usually eat as much as we want, then call into activity another set of taste buds by forcing on the appetite another kind of food.

Take from ten to fifteen minutes' exercise before retiring; sleep in a cold, thoroughly ventilated room.

Spend as much time as possible in the sunshine and open air. Play golf, join a gymnasium, dance, sing, kick and play with the boys for it is infinitely better to dig in the ditch for your dinner and be able to digest and enjoy it, than to lie invalid in your self-made prison, and perhaps die and probably if the truth were written on your tombstone it would read:

There was a fool who made a fortune, but he died.

The world called him great, but it lied.

LOVE'S WAY

That is not love which always much desires.

Which ever suspects and needs new.

Thus burn the glaring flames of passion's fires.

But flaming passion burns itself away.

That is not love which feels its condescending.

Nor passes by with cold and haughty stride.

Love knows no such condition, all unbending.

That's only love of admiration—pride.

Nor is that love which contemplates condition.

Or hesitates 'till impulse swift has sped.

That which would, in the balance, weigh position.

Is something else, far better left unsaid.

Nay, love has naught to do with hesitation.

It has one aim, one impulse and one end.

And little does it care for rank or station.

While always gracious, love delights to bend.

Love asks but love and little else requires.

And given love, on love will gladly live.

Naught else receiving, love naught else desires.

For chiefest of love's pleasures is to give.

—Allen Johnson.

During moments of rest and repose.

do not think of doing things, but think of enjoying things. The man who is always thinking of doing things, may produce the quantity for a time, but the time will be short, and the quality will be absent entirely. The best results are always secured when thoughts of doing things are frequently alternated with thoughts of enjoying things. The simplest, the easiest and the quickest way to recuperate the mind is to think of enjoying things. A few moments of such thoughts are usually sufficient to restore full mental vigor, but those moments must be given over completely to thoughts of enjoyment; the doing of things must be wholly forgotten for the time being, and the mind must give its all to the pleasing picture it has elected to entertain.

WITHOUT YOUR LOVE

Without your love, life hath no hope for me.

For I did rather cease to be than be—without your love.

Without your love, the day and night

For daylight sickens in the sun,

And sinks—without your love.

Without your love, the tender flowers must fade.

The rose in ash bed be laid.

Scantless—without your love.

Without your love, the stars grow faint and dim.

Unseen comes the nightjar's hymn

And shrill—without your love.

Without your love—O, agony of sight!

How I should rather cease to be than live—without your love!

—Charles Ceyzer.

CHAS. I. HOOD

TO DELIVER ADDRESS AT CHELSEA ACADEMY

CHELSEA, Vt. June 10th, 1912.

The regular routine and quiet that usually prevail in the little inland town which is the Shire of Orange county and nestles between the beautiful high hills along either side of the first branch of the White river, will give way this week to the exercises associated with the annual commencement of Chelsea Academy and High school, chief among which will be the laying of the corner stone of the new high school building which will mark a new era in the honorable record and history of the old institution, and the town as well.

The program as laid down for the week is in part and in brief as follows: On Wednesday evening, June 13th at 8 o'clock will occur the annual price speaking contest at the opera house.

On Thursday, June 13th on the school grounds at 1:30 p. m. Preliminary exercises followed by the laying of the corner stone and address by Charles I. Hood of Lowell, Mass. an alumnus of the old academy whose name and fame has become world wide. Following the address by Mr. Hood the assemblage will repair to the opera house for the remainder of the afternoon program which will consist of music, orations and essays by members of the graduating class and an address by Hon. Charles C. Pitts of Brattleboro, Vermont's first attorney general.

The alumni banquet which is an annual function of commencement week will be held at 8 o'clock on the evening of June 13th in the parlors of the Congregational church.

The graduating exercises will be held in the opera house on Friday evening, June 14th at 8 o'clock which will be followed by an address by Hon. Frank Plumley of Northfield, member of congress from the second Vermont district.

CAMP ALBA OPENED

The members of Camp Alba in Spruce avenue, Willow Dale, officially opened their summer place for the warm weather, Sunday afternoon.

There was a large number of friends present and a very pleasant afternoon and evening was spent.

Those who will occupy the camp during the summer are Representative Henri Achin, Jr., Xavier Delisle, Ernest J. Dupont, Armand Lavoie, Dr. N. O. Duvenercher and Edouard Bergeron. The camp is nicely situated and is well furnished and will afford great comfort and pleasure for its occupants.

TURKEY TROT

PROVED FATAL TO A YOUNG WOMAN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 11.—Mrs. Agnes Day, 21 years, of 10 Mt. Vernon avenue, with her husband, enjoyed an exhibition of turkey trot on one of the piers last night.

When they returned home, in a spirit of fun, she endeavored to show the rest of the family how the dance was accomplished. A sharp pain in her side caused the young wife to stop. Ten minutes later she dropped unconsciously to the floor.

Before a physician could arrive the girl was dead. She had burst a blood vessel during the dance.

KATZ DISCOURAGED

WANTED TO DIE

Cripple Found Struggle Too Hard

NEW YORK, June 11—Michael Katz, a crippled young man who occasionally sold his writings to magazines, tried to commit suicide by inhaling gas at the Occident hotel, Bowery and Broome street, yesterday.

An employe snuffed gas and called two policemen who broke in the door and found the young man sitting in a chair, unconscious, with the end of a gas tube tied to his mouth with strips of sheeting.

He was sent to St. Vincent's hospital, where it was said that though he was unconscious he would probably recover.

The young man wrote eight letters and left them in the room, with a poem which was signed with his initials. The poem was written in a clear hand, and is:

Only a suicide's grave, 'twas shown

To those who passed it by, unknown—

What need to know the name or creed

Of one committing such a deed?

He lies there in his grave despised,

Unwept, unmourned, unrecognized.

A letter addressed to "Whom it may concern," asked that Julius Goldstein of 64 Suffolk street be notified, and continued: "I am doing this act voluntarily, though absolute necessity be the cause. In these days of 'the survival of the fittest' my crippled condition renders it impossible for me to secure a position and rather than depend on kind friends or become a charity patient I prefer ending it altogether before sinking in the scale."

There was also a letter to his mother, Mrs. Mary Katz, of 22 Plymouth place, Brockton, Mass., and to his sister in the Bronx. Mrs. Day Weltz of 128 Broome street, who, with her husband often befriended the young man, said he was very popular in the neighborhood.

"He was always picking out plots for stories," she said, "from the human interest happenings in the neighborhood. He received an injury to his foot when a boy and a year ago his leg was amputated at Bellevue hospital. While recovering there he wrote many poems for the nurses, and made such an impression upon them that half-a-dozen continued the friendship after he left the hospital, and every week now he gets letters from some of them."

"But he never seriously looked at any woman, but one, and she is a young working girl, who is very much in love with him. He tried to forget her because he thought that he never could earn money enough to support her. The last place he had paid him $7 a week. He knew typewriting and stenography."

JUDGE SCHOFIELD

DIED AT MALDEN

Served Only Few Days on Circuit Court

MALDEN, June 11.—Judge William Schofield, who a year ago was appointed United States circuit judge to succeed Judge Francis C. Lowell, died shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 136 Summer street, after an illness lasting about a year.

At his bedside were his wife and the nurse who had been attending him for many months.

Judge Schofield was appointed United States circuit judge by President Taft May 24, 1911. Early in June he was inducted into office, but he sat in court for only three or four days. He had been taken ill in May, and the illness developed into a spinal trouble which confined him to his house.

One of his last cases, as superior court judge was that of Mrs. Lena Cusumano and Enrico Mascioli, at Plymouth, in February, 1911, in which he sentenced both to electrocution.

MORE CARS RUNNING
ON BOSTON "L" ROADMayor Fitzgerald Continues His Efforts to Have the
Trouble Settled

BOSTON, June 11.—Quiet conditions on the lines of the Boston Elevated Ry. Co. marked the beginning of the fifth day of the strike of Boston's big trolley system. An increased number of cars were put in operation on all the company's surface, elevated and subway lines and the company officials claimed that the service was rapidly nearing normal. Union officials claimed that the service has not nearly reached the normal stage. They said that new members, including a number of older men in the company's service, are joining the union. The union men remain firm in their demand for recognition of the union and increased pay.

For the first time since the strike began early morning cars were put into commission at 3 o'clock for the accommodation of the nightworkers and newspaper men but only a few persons rode in them. This was due to a vote of the union men which made the payment of dues forfeit for ratifying the cars. When the cars passed newspaper men were forced by the crowd. Union officials arranged for a parade and mass meeting to show the strength of the strikers this afternoon.

Mayor Fitzgerald and city officials continued their activities in trying to effect a settlement of the strike. Although President William A. Harcourt of the elevated company has refused to meet officials of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railroad Employees, he has agreed to meet the state board of arbitration if that body desires.

AN INVESTIGATION

OF THE BOSTON STRIKE MAY BE ORDERED

BOSTON, June 11.—The strike reached the legislature today when Representative J. J. Murphy of Boston introduced an order providing for an investigation by the railroad commission and a report by that board to the state board of arbitration within five days.

The order also provides for the summoning of the officers of the Elevated company and the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railroad Employees of America local 559 by the state board of arbitration after the report of the railroad commission is received and the laying before the officials of both sides of plans and specifications for a settlement.

The order was laid over until the afternoon session of the house.

Brockton	1	0	0	1	5	0	4	0	1

Although this was circus day there was a fair sized crowd at Spaulding park when Lowell and Brockton got together for the second engagement on consecutive days. Yesterday the home team got trimmed good and sound by the Shoe City aggregation but the Grays went into the game today with the determination of carrying off the bacon and demonstrating to the top-notchers that they were not undefeatable. Talking about the circus, there were several circus catches made during the game which enthused the spectators.

Wolfgang was on the slab for the home team and Lavigne was behind the bat. For Brockton, Brignolia was pitching the balls and Wadleigh was gathering them in with the exception of those which were knocked into the field, some of which were caught and others resulted in hits for the home team.

Umpire Lannigan was the decision-maker and called time at 3 o'clock. The lineup of the teams was as follows:

Lowell	Brockton
Clemens of Magee	of Kauff
DeGroot of	if Smith
Bouttes of	2b Howard
McGawwell of	3b Boardman
Miller of	1b Barry
Lavigne of	rf McLane
Wolfgang of	ss J. Sullivan
	c Wadleigh
	p Brignolia

First Inning

Brockton broke the ice in the first inning by sending one man across the plate. Kauff struck out and Smith drew a free pass and then stole second. Howard also drew a base on balls. Boardman singled to right field and Smith scored. DeGroot threw to Lavigne to get Smith and Lavigne sent the ball to second to get Boardman. The ball was then sent back home again and Howard was caught between third and home.

In the latter half of the inning Clemens hit a grounder to Barry and was out at first. Magee hit to Sullivan and died a similar death. DeGroot hit to Brignolia and was out at first.

Score: Lowell 0, Brockton 1.

Second Inning

In the second inning, the visitors went out in one, two, three order. Barry hit to Miller and was out at first. McLane hit to Wolfgang and was also out at first. Sullivan hit a line drive to DeGroot and was the third man out.

Lowell turned the tables on the visitors in the latter half of the inning when they scored three runs. Bouttes started off by hitting to Sullivan and going out at first. McGawwell drew a base on balls and Miller got hit by a pitched ball and walked to first. Burchill struck out. Lavigne singled to center field and McGawwell scored. Miller going to third and Lavigne scoring to second on the throw. Wolfgang hit to Sullivan, who fumbled and was safe at first. Miller scoring on the play. Clemens singled over shortstop and Lavigne crossed the plate. Magee hit to Sullivan, who threw to second, getting Clemens.

Score: Lowell 3, Brockton 1.

Third Inning

In the third inning, Wadleigh singled to center field and Brignolia followed with a strikeout. Kauff foul flied to Lavigne. Wadleigh went to second on a passed ball. Smith was the third man out, he being retired on strikes.

Lowell scored another run in this inning. DeGroot flied to Sullivan and Burchill sent the sphere into left garden for two bases. McGawwell then singled to right field and Bouttes scored. McGawwell subsequently stole second. Miller was hit by a pitched ball for the second time. The ball bounced back and struck Wadleigh's hand, splitting one of his fingers. The injury was so severe that it was necessary for him to retire from the game and Carrigan took his place. Burchill flied to Smith, who threw to Howard, getting McGawwell at second for a double play.

Score: Lowell 4, Brockton 1.

Fourth Inning

Brockton scored another run in the fourth inning. Howard singled to right and Boardman singled to left. Barry hit to Miller who threw to Burchill, getting Boardman at second. Howard going to third on the play. McLane singled to right field and Howard scored. Sullivan knocked the ball to Wolfgang who threw to Bouttes who got Barry at third. Carrigan was third on a fly to Clemens.

Smith made two good running catches in the latter half of the inning but despite the good work of the Brockton left fielder Lowell scored another run. Lavigne flied to Smith, who made a nice running catch and then Wolfgang flied to Kauff. Clemens went to first on a free pass. He started to steal second and Carrigan in throwing to get him threw bad and Clemens circled the bases and reached home. Magee flied to Smith.

Score: Lowell 5, Brockton 2.

Fifth Inning

In the fifth inning Brignolia hit to Miller who fumbled and he was safe at first and Kauff followed with a single to right field. Smith singled, hitting the bases. Howard then came to bat and hit the ball to right field for a two-bagger, scoring Brignolia and Kauff. At this point Wolfgang was taken out of the box and Zeiser took his place. Boardman singled to center and Smith and Howard scored. Boardman going to second on the throw. Barry hit to Bouttes and was out at first. Boardman going to third. Boardman later scored on a passed ball. McLane flied to Clemens. Sullivan flied out to Clemens.

DeGroot flied to Howard and Bouttes hit to Sullivan who fumbled and the runner was safe. McGawwell flied out to Kauff. Miller got a two-bagger to left sending Bouttes to third. Burchill went out Boardman to first.

Score: Lowell 5, Brockton 7.

Sixth Inning

Carrigan was the first man up in the sixth but he sent the ball to the pitcher and was retired at first. Brignolia went out. Miller to first. Kauff sent the ball to right field for a two-bagger but he died on second base for Smith sent a line drive which Burchill gathered in.

Lavigne flied to Smith. Zeiser was the second man out, flying to McLane. Clemens went out, Howard to first.

Score: Lowell 5, Brockton 7.

Seventh Inning

Howard started off in the seventh by smashing the ball to left field for a two-bagger. Boardman did the same thing and Howard scored. Barry beat out an infield hit. Boardman going to third. McLane flied to Bouttes.

Sullivan sent the ball to Zeiser and was out at first but Boardman scored. Carrigan sent the ball over the left field fence for a home run, he and Barry scoring. Brignolia singled to left field. Kauff went out Zeiser to first.

Magee went out, Sullivan to first. DeGroot flied to McLane. Bouttes singled to center field. McGawwell went out, Howard to first.

Score: Lowell 5, Brockton 11.

Eighth Inning

In the eighth inning Smith sent a fly to Burchill. Howard was the second man out on a fly to DeGroot. Boardman was the third out. Miller to first. Sullivan hit the sphere to Boardman and was out at first. Burchill sent a grounder to Barry and was out at first. Lavigne hit in front of the plate. Carrigan throwing him out at first.

Score: Lowell 5, Brockton 11.

Ninth Inning

Barry got a three-bagger to right field. McLane flied to Clemens. Sullivan flied to Clemens and Barry scored on the put out. Carrigan flied to Miller. Lannigan went to bat for Zeiser. He went out Brignolia to first. Clemens flied to McLane. Magee hit to center for a three-bagger. DeGroot fanned.

Flag Day

Will be observed on next Friday

Friday, June 14, will be Flag Day, for the governor hath said. His Excellency has issued a Flag Day proclamation and it contains some very noble sentiments. On Flag Day we observe the anniversary of the adoption of our national flag by the Continental congress in the year 1777.

Gov. Foss asks that the flag be conspicuously displayed on that day and says that all persons having the opportunity to do so, should honor the day by some special act or observance in harmony with the occasion.

"The children," he says, "should be told again the ringing stories of the American patriots and inspired to a patriotism as enduring as theirs."

His Excellency says that the highest use of a more active and determined part in solving every civic problem; to put these resolutions into effect and to ensure the coming generation a government and a flag which shall still inspire an undiminished loyalty and devotion.

WEAVERS RETURN TO WORK

BANK WAS SOLVENT
WHEN IT WENT UNDERForced to the Wall by Clearing House, Says Director
Charles Levy

WASHINGTON, June 11.—At the re-emption today of the so-called money trust investigation by the Pujo committee of the house, Charles Levy, a director of the Oriental bank, was called to corroborate testimony of previous witnesses that the clearing house forced the bank to the wall during the panic of 1907. The bank was absolutely solvent when it went under, he said.

Frank A. Vanderlip, president of the National City bank and chairman of the clearing house committee, was then called and questioned concerning the collection of out of town checks by clearing house banks, which it has been alleged nets them a profit of $50,000 a year. Mr. Vanderlip said he thought it was perfectly proper for the banks to bind themselves to impose a tax on the checks. He refused to concede that the clearing house should be subject to judicial review.

PREACHER ACCUSED OF VIOLATING WHITE SLAVE LAW

NEW YORK, June 11.—Rev. David D. Turner, the negro pastor of the Shiloh Baptist church at 50 Gregory street, Jersey City, was arrested at the parsonage, 151 Grand street, that city, yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with violation of the New Jersey white slave law.

Turner is 70 years old. His wife runs an employment agency, where she says she handles all classes of help, both white and black. The agency is conducted at the parsonage. For some time the immigration officials have suspected Turner. Finally Samuel M. Auerbach of 2319 Corona avenue, The Bronx, an agent for the North American Civic League of Immigration, laid the matter before Capt. John Cody of the City Hall police station in Jersey City. Cody arranged for Auerbach, a woman investigator and a police motor to visit Turner. This visit was made yesterday afternoon.

Auerbach and the women got two negroes from Turner, and Auerbach says that he told Turner they were wanted for immoral purposes in New York. He gave Turner $5.

Auerbach got a warrant from Acting Judge Edward Markle and on it arrested Turner at his home. The preacher was locked up in the city prison in default of $5,000 bail.

THAT ALLOWED POLICEMEN TO ENTER SALOONS

ALBANY, N. Y., June 11.—Charles W. Rinn, the "personal privilege" Mayor of Albany, has been forced to rescind his order which allowed policemen to enter saloons and stake their thirst whenever they wished.

Upon assuming office he declared a policeman has as much right as any other individual to enter saloons, whether on duty or off. The policemen took such advantage of the permission that the mayor was forced to change his ideas on personal privilege so far as they were concerned.

MANY PERSONS INJURED IN COLLISION AT CLINTON

Passenger Train Crashed Into a Freight Train Near the Union Station Today

CLINTON, June 11.—Two persons were seriously injured, six others were hurt and about 30 passengers were badly shaken up when a passenger train on the New York, New Haven & Hartford road crashed head on into a freight train near the Union station here shortly before noon today.

The most seriously injured were J. H. Garland of Marlboro, conductor of the passenger train and John Morely, fireman. Conductor Garland suffered internal injuries and at the hospital it was feared that he might die. The fireman had both ankles broken and was badly cut and bruised.

The engines of both trains were demolished, several of the freight cars were derailed and the mail car, attached to the passenger train, was thrown against a water tank. The front trucks of the forward passenger

ONE MAN KILLED SEVERAL INJURED In an Accident at Quincy Today

QUINCY, June 11.—A bulkhead pipe weighing nine tons, dropped ten feet on the molasses steamer Nelson, undergoing repairs at the Fore River Shipbuilding yards today and killed one workman, seriously injuring two others and hurt a fourth man. The dead, Charles Sulem. The injured: Andrew Brynildson, an electrician, may die; Joseph Yarr, a riveter, seriously hurt; Daniel McDonald, a caulker, crushed but will recover.

The men were at work on the vessel when the pipe on a traveling crane above them broke loose and fell.

NARROW ESCAPE CHILDREN WERE ON BILLBOARD WHICH COLLAPSED

A large number of small children narrowly escaped serious injury this forenoon when a large billboard toppled over at the corner of Dutton and Market streets. As it was, several of them were slightly injured.

The children in order to get a better view of the circus parade climbed up on the billboard and waited until the procession came by. Suddenly the heavy weight on the board made it topple over and the boys and girls were thrown to the sidewalk. Fortunately the board struck a tree and did not fall to the ground.

Some of the boys and girls were injured slightly but they remained on the premises until the circus parade had gone by.

BIGGEST SHOW ON EARTH IS IN LOWELL TODAY

Thousands Saw Grand Street Parade—Immense Audience at Afternoon Performance

Circus! There's magic in the word, and this is circus day. Barnum & Bailey's (greatest show on earth) came to Lowell this morning at an hour when most people were in the land of nod, and quietly and with all the dignity of a church picnic took up its abode for the day at the fair grounds in Gorham street.

Four trains of 50 cars were required to transport the huge organization which is this season larger than ever before. The first thing on the circus day schedule was the parade of this morning which passed over the principal streets. If ever a circus parade had a verbal and rhetorical bouquet of adjectival superlatives coming to it, Barnum & Bailey's is the said parade. It was there with the real goods from stem to stern—with the "glittering, golden, gorgeous, gigantic, gladdening, glamorous" but, who, back up! The writer has shot his circus bolt. He looked all over his circus adjectives this morning and found them badly frayed at the edges and almost totally unfit for use. Some of them were bent almost double from long use, and many were cracked or sprang. The truth is they have been badly overworked in instances where they didn't really fit. Now comes the Barnum & Bailey circus—admittedly the biggest and best—and the writer frankly confesses that he is at his wit's end to do justice to the pageant with which the circus folks delighted thousands this morning.

MOST MARVELOUS PERFORMING SEAL THIS SIDE OF THE BIG DRINK!!

SOME FEATURES AT THE CIRCUS THIS AFTERNOON

It was a corking parade, and how we did enjoy it! If you wanted to get anywhere while the parade had the floor your car, which was a good thing, for the sidewalks were so thoroughly blocked that "passage through" was almost out of the question. If your office window fronted on a street through which the parade passed your friends were Johnnies on the spot. There were no vacant windows.

One of the many features of the parade that attracted eyes attention was the fine line of horses. Not all of the fine horses were dressed to kill, though perhaps their blankets of silver and gold made them the more attractive. The draft horses were as fine a lot as one would find in a month of travel and the twenty ponies hitched to the little wagon were just too cute for anything. We might say something about the girls who rode horseback, but they will never read this, so what's the use of going in raptures over them and besides, their color is not natural.

The writer heard one fellow say that he recognized at least three of the elephants and he swore by the shivering callosities on their previous visit, and he was willing to wager that the camels hadn't changed their humps. To make a long story short, the parade, from leading band to the last, was a striking callosities pleased the most, and did much to convince the wavering few that the next best

By Memorial Service at Different Cemeteries

The members of the local fire department held memorial services Sunday by visiting each cemetery in this city and placing standards and flowers on the graves of the deceased members of the department. There was a delegation of two men from each company and they were accompanied by Deputy Chiefs Edward P. Saunders, James C. Sullivan and Assistant Engineer Charles E. Alway.

The services were very impressive and all the members of the department who were off duty were in attendance. During the past year Deputy Chief James P. Norton and Assistant Engineer Charles F. Stackpole have passed away, also former Captain William Flynn, of Hose Co. No. 8.

In the afternoon services were held at the different cemeteries. At the Catholic cemetery in Gorham street Rev. Dr. Kibben, pastor of St. Peter's church read prayers over the graves of Messrs. Norton and Flynn while at the Westlawn cemetery where Assistant Engineer Stackpole is buried Rev. Mr. Fisher of the First Universalist church, conducted services and delivered a eulogy.

Alderman Andrew B. Barrett, who is commissioner of the fire and water departments of the city, was also present.

GOVERNOR FOSS PLACED HIS SIGNATURE TO ANOTHER RAILROAD BILL TODAY

BOSTON, June 11.—A bill authorizing the Connecticut River Railroad Co. to purchase the Vermont Valley railroad of Vermont and the Sullivan county railroad of New Hampshire now being operated by the Connecticut River under lease was signed today by Gov. Foss.

The bill still further consolidates New England lines as the Connecticut river is under lease to the Boston & Maine, which in turn is controlled by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. The bill is also a step toward carrying forward the plans of the Boston & Maine for a company line for the entire distance between South Vernon, Vt. and White River Junction, Vt., as railroad traffic along that portion of the Connecticut river is now shared with the Central Vermont railroad.

MATRIMONIAL

A very pretty wedding was solemnized this morning at the chapel of St. Joseph's rectory, when Dr. Henri E. Langis, a popular young man of this city and Miss Laura Denault, the well known pianist, were united in the bonds of matrimony. The ceremony being performed at a private nuptial mass celebrated by Rev. Guillaume Ouellette, O. M. I. The bride who was becomingly attired in white silk, was attended by Mr. William Drapeau, while the bridegroom was accompanied by his brother, Mr. Joseph Elzeir.

At the close of the mass the happy couple repaired to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Hubert Denault, 749 Merrimack street, where a dainty wedding breakfast was served to the immediate relatives of the contracting couple. Dr. and Mrs. Langis left at 11 o'clock in an automobile for Boston and New York. The young couple at home to their friends at 749 Merrimack street after June 21.

RONDEAU-SAUVAGEAU

The wedding of Mr. Rodolphe Rondeau and Miss Marie Berthe Sauvageau took place at a nuptial mass celebrated at 7 o'clock this morning at St. Joseph's church, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Joseph Blais, O. M. I. The young couple were attended by their respective fathers, Messrs. J. B. Rondeau and Ernest Sauvageau. After the ceremony the party repaired to the home of the bride's father, 123 Mt. Washington street, where a short reception and breakfast were held. In the course of the reception vocal and instrumental solos were rendered by the Misses Blanche and Beatrice Sauvageau, sisters of the bride, and many others. Among the guests was the bride's brother, Mr. Joseph Sauvageau of Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Rondeau who were the recipients of many costly gifts left on the 11:30 o'clock train for New Bedford. They will also visit relatives in Fall River and they will be at home to their friends at 35 Salem street after June 24.

LAWRENCE BOY DIED WHILE PHYSICIANS WERE AT-TENDING TO HIS INJURY

LAWRENCE, June 11.—Walter Marshall, 8 years old, son of Louis Marshall of 182 Lowell street, died last evening during an operation for a broken arm. The lad was playing in the yard and sustained the injury by falling from a fence. Physicians were summoned and while they were engaged over him he succumbed, probably from heart failure.

BODY OF A MAN FOUND FLOATING IN MERRIMACK RIVER

HAVENHILL, June 11.—The body of an unknown man, aged about 60 years and evidently a laborer, was found floating in the Merrimack river yesterday afternoon by Edward Beauchamp, who towed it ashore. Medical Examiner Croston viewed the remains, but nothing was found in the clothing to reveal the identity of the deceased.

THERIAULT-BERGERON

Mr. Joseph Theriault and Miss Marie Clara Bergeron were married yesterday, the ceremony being performed at St. Jean Baptiste church by Rev. Joseph Blais, O. M. I. The young couple were attended by Messrs. Philippe Bergeron and Ferdinand Theriault. After the ceremony a reception and dinner were held at the home of the bridegroom's parents, 132 Cheever street followed by a reception in the evening.

CONSTITUTIONAL CONVENTION

CONCORD, N. H., June 11.—At the forenoon session of the constitutional convention 16 more amendments were proposed, making a total of 40 to date. The recall, the taxation of incomes and increased legislative control of corporations were among the subjects included today for the first time.

After a discussion of the amendments relating to a reduction of the size of the state house of representatives a motion that all of them be reported unfavorably was defeated on a viva voce vote.

Sunburned Kiddies need not suffer. Neither should Grown-ups.

MAY RAISE TUITION FEE AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Matter Was Taken Up and Discussed by the School Board Last Night

The school board met in special session last night for the purpose of discussing with school representatives from the towns of Tyngsboro, Tewksbury and Dracut, the proposition to increase the high school tuition fee which is now $50. The men from the suburban towns felt that $50 was a pretty fair price to pay and called attention to the fact that only three out of eighty-four towns and cities in Massachusetts were charging more than $60 a pupil. They said, however, that if Lowell decided to raise the price there would be nothing left for the towns in question to do but to pay it.

The men heard on the matter of tuition were H. H. Bishop, Tewksbury, chairman of the district committee; Nelson L. Bentley, chairman, Dracut; Wilbur A. Patten, chairman, Tewksbury; S. H. Chase, superintendent of schools, Dracut; and B. R. Currier, Tyngsboro. Principal William H. Dooley of the industrial school was present at the conference and at the close of which Mr. Bentley of Dracut took occasion to remark that the parents of the children who attend the industrial school from Dracut, are delighted with the progress that the children are making.

Mr. Bishop was the first of the visitors to be heard. He expressed his appreciation of the board's courtesy in inviting him to the conference and said that he would like to know was just why the board contemplated raising the price of tuition. In looking over the report of the state board of education he found, he said, out of 55 towns located similarly to his own and sending pupils to neighboring cities only three were charged more than $50 a pupil. He called attention to the fact that Tewksbury holds its town meeting in March, and a sudden increase at this time of the year, he said, would put the town in a rather awkward position.

Chairman Farrington, replying to Mr. Bishop, said the rate is the same as it has been for the last 15 or 20 years and while the cost of education, he said, had increased during that time nothing has been allowed for the depreciation of school buildings or money invested in the plant. "While our expenses have been increasing," he said, "yours have remained the same."

Mr. Bentley of Dracut said that his town pays to Lowell about $2500 a year, tuition fees in the high school. Besides that, there are 13 day and 12 evening pupils in the industrial school which pay $1500, making a total of $4000. The state reimburses the town 50 per cent, on their industrial school pupils, but there is no reimbursement on the high school scholars sent in. Directly, he said, the town of Dracut doing business in Lowell, helps to pay the taxes. The relations between the city and the town are so close that they ought not to want to get the best of one another, and he did not believe the board wanted to make money out of the town. He also reminded the board that when the pupils attend the high school only a part term, they pay for the whole term.

Superintendent Whitcomb said that Dracut has been an example in generosity, in that respect.

Mr. Patten of Tewksbury said that his town sends about 37 to the high school, and has three day and a number of evening pupils in the industrial school.

Supt. Chase said he was sure that the committees were willing to pay whatever it may cost the city of Lowell for the tuition of pupils in the high school. Personally, he was quite sure that the board did not wish to make money from the tuition of pupils from towns outside. "We are educating these children," he said, "not so much for our own sake as for yours."

"The chances are ten to one that after they have finished their education they will work in the city of Lowell, though they may not sleep there. There are three towns pay over $1000 to Lowell in tuition fees every year. While we are not asking for charity, you understand, of course, that the towns are more burdened for school purposes than are the cities. It has been suggested that only three places in the state, out of 84 towns and cities reported by the state board, charge over $50. That being the case, we could not help wondering why it should cost Lowell more than $50. The cost, instead of increasing, is decreasing from year to year. Five years ago the average cost was over $50. The last statement made to the board of education gave the average cost as $48.55. It is like a manufacturing plant; the larger the output, the less the unit cost. The average cost for five years was $56.55."

Mr. Currier of Tyngsboro said, if the board finds it necessary to charge more, the towns will have no alternative but to pay more. In that case, he asked if the board would grant the courtesy of showing to them, what it bases its figures on.

Chairman Farrington said that the high school at the present time is hardly adequate. Last year the board recommended a new building, but this year, in view of the city's financial condition, the board has not recommended it. In a short time, however, it will have to come, and it will mean the expenditure of quite a sum of money. If that is not done, some of the children will have to be shut off from going to the high school. It cannot be the children of Lowell, and it will have to be the children of the towns. The board does not like to do that, and does not intend to; but it may come from some subsequent board.

There was an expression of opinion from one of the towns committee men that when that time comes, the towns that have the privilege of sending their children to the high school should be taxed, in some form, for the extra cost of a new building. But it was felt that the middle of the year is not the time to make the change. It ought to go over, at least, until the towns can plan to meet the added cost, by an extra appropriation.

Chairman Farrington assured the representatives of the towns that the school board is not in business to make money, and that the matter would be given serious consideration before action is taken.

Mr. Bentley of Dracut assured the board that the pupils in the industrial school, and their parents, are highly satisfied with the work done at that school.

The board did not take any action in the matter last night, but will probably do so when the matter of adoption of a new set of rules comes before the board.

KEITH'S LOWELL THEATRE

A good sized audience attended Keith's last evening and was rewarded with the enjoyment of a first class bill in every particular. The headline attraction was Prof. Spica and his Royal Venetian band of 15 genuine imported musicians, each one an artist, and Prof. Spica himself a veritable Creole except that he works along even more acrobatic lines than the celebrated Italian. The members of the band were daintily attired in green coats and picturesque green hats surmounted with white feathers and they played like masters on a variety of instruments. As a concert band they are as clever a bunch as has been heard here this season. They carry no great amount of brass, the clarinets, cornets and oboes being most prominent. Among their numbers were "Peas and Peasants," "Every Little Movement," "American Patrol," sextet on "Lucia," and for grand finale they tore off "Yankee Doodle," most acceptably. But the band was only incidental to Prof. Spica, for the professor is some performer, believe me. The professor is a tall gentleman, tall all over, particularly in regard to hair and arms. His wealth of hair would put Henry Smith into bankruptcy if it were generally adopted by the well-groomed young men. The professor's manly bosom was covered with medals that glistened most sensitively in the limelight. The professor used no hooks, or rather no music rack nor stand but just roamed about the stage as the spirit moved him, and the spirit was right on the job throughout. He pleaded, coaxed and threatened those musicians until they sent forth the most delicious harmony in response to his commands and if a particularly fine chord was demanded the professor would make a snail dash at that portion of the band that was about to produce, almost jumping into the instrument and then drawing back gracefully as if personally drawing out the harmony. On the grand finale, with "Yankee Doodle" for an inspiration, the professor threatened to do a back flip into Prof. Martie's lap, but a crack of the bass drum made him regain his equilibrium and he finished strong and right end up, while his hair resembled Longfellow's spreading chestnut tree. Don't miss Spica and his band; they are the goods, musical and sensational. Jerome and Lewis, the Kenial Kolorad Koubles, are really one of the best colored teams, naturally colored, that have been seen here in a long time. They have good voices, are graceful dancers and dress the act well. The Three Sherry Girls are as captivating as the wine whose name they bear. They are young, fair to behold, magnificently gowned and sing and dance well. They make four changes of gowns, behind the scenes, of course, during their act. The Escurians from the old world do an exceedingly tramline act which in other words is a bounding, aerial act of a circus nature. Harry Booker and company present the funny satire, "The Walking Delegate," in which Mr. Booker portrays the funny Irishman. The pictures are a big feature of the show in themselves. They include "The High Cost of Living," "The Texas Twins," "The Quest of Happiness." The bill for the last three days will include Polly Holmes and company in "A Mixed Affair," The Flying Russells, Ted and Clara Steelem Wheeler and Goldie and Prof. Spica and his band in a new program.

A splendid program is again being presented at the Merrimack Square theatre this week and judging from the warm reception each performer was given yesterday it is safe to say that the bill is so arranged as to satisfy every taste. There is plenty of music as well as a touch of comedy in every place and all in all the entire program is a most pleasing one. The bill is headed by the Temple Players who present a very interesting and pleasing musical act entitled "In Japan."

The stage settings for the piece are more elaborate than ever and add not a little to the satisfactory results attained in the presentation. The musical numbers are mostly all new and they are well rendered. Several fine chorus selections are also given, while there is a delightful exhibition of fancy dancing. The offering has many features that are distinctly apart from anything yet attempted by this clever company of entertainers.

Eddie Foley, a high class singing comedian, as heard to advantage in many delightful songs which are very witty. He is possessed of a fine voice and his act is neat and clever.

Howard Wolf, a character change artist, and a banjoist of rare ability, entertaining in several good numbers, and Miss Alice Bagley, in illustrated songs, is very clever.

The photo-plays for the first three days of the week are again among the best shown locally. "The Mystery of Room 23," "The Drummer Girl from Vicksburg," and others equally as good contribute in making the offering most enjoyable. The views of present day events are also good.

Patrons who visited the theatre yesterday found conditions so far as temperature was concerned—much to their liking. No matter how hot it may be out-of-doors, patrons will find it most enjoyable in this playhouse at all times. A change of photo-plays will be made for the last three days of the week.

A WORD TO PARENTS

Look After Your Child's Health During the Years of Most Rapid Growth.

School children who are nervous, who cannot sit quietly on a chair, who are always dropping things, and perhaps have twitching of the muscles of the face, need Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once.

Growing girls who become pale and thin, who have fickle appetites; who are out of breath after climbing the stairs, and who have palpitation of the heart after the least exertion, need them also.

Parents of such children should not delay the treatment. Nervous children do not develop properly. A sickly girl loses a sickly womanhood and lack of blood during the years of most rapid growth means stunted, listless, unambitious men and women later on.

Pure, rich, red blood is what is needed. Strength for the nerves follows naturally. The time to correct the need of this is now, before any more harm is done.

Miss Carrie E. Hathaway, of North Houghton street, North Adams, Mass., was cured of anemia by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills after her case was pronounced hopeless by her doctor. The statement of her cure is told by her mother, Mrs. A. A. Hathaway. "My daughter, Carrie, was confined to her bed for two years suffering from anemia. She seemed to have no blood and was as pale as a ghost. She was thin and did not weigh more than 100 pounds, had no strength or ambition and could not sit up. Her appetite was poor and she had difficulty in breathing. No one expected her to get well and our minister, before going on his vacation, came to bid her goodbye as he did not think she would live until his return. She spent hundreds of dollars but the doctor seemed to be puzzled and could not help her. She had been sick for over two years before I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. The pills gave her quick relief and cured her after a fair trial. She has had no serious sickness since and weighs 170 pounds. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are a wonderful remedy and I cannot say enough in praise of them."

THEATRE VOYONS

One of the features of the program at the Theatre Voyons today is the fashion review covering over 25 different gowns, dating in conception all the way from hundreds of years before Christ to the present day. The extravagant styles of the courts of Louis XIV and Napoleon and the more recent crinolines and bustle are all seen on living models. The dramatic offering, "The Prayers of Manuella," was staged in Colorado, and it is full of the saving and the saving. The new play, "The Awakening," will please all, for it is Arthur Johnson, the Lubin star, and Miss Orni Hawley, a newcomer in pictures, but a most acceptable one, appear.

SOCIAL AND FRATERNAL

The regular meeting of Minnequa council was held last night. There was a large attendance and considerable business was transacted. It is expected that at the next meeting of the council that the great chief will be present and delegates will be elected to the state convention. At the conclusion of the meeting last night an entertainment program was carried out and refreshments were served by the following committee: Sisters Clara Dunova, Clara McPhail, Rose Hardy, Mary Tighe, A. M. Ryan, Ada Port and George Frost.

General Fiske Lodge, 44, held its regular meeting last evening with a good attendance. Four names were received and two candidates initiated. Considerable routine business was transacted. It was announced that the lodge had won the banner for making the largest gain in membership in the district during the last quarter.

The next meeting will be held in Vorties hall on June 24. Committee in charge are Mrs. Arthur C. Smith, Mrs. Ober, Herbert Jones, Linwood Wing and Bertha B. Ober.

The Hibernians

The members of Division 8, A. O. H., met in regular session last night with President Daniel F. Reilly in the chair. At the conclusion of the regular business four propositions for membership were received and three candidates were initiated. Various committees submitted reports of progress. Names were proposed for delegates to the state convention which is to be held at Springfield. The delegates will be elected at the next meeting on June 24th. President Reilly commended the members for turning out in such large numbers at the funeral of Brother Michael O'Grady.

THE SOCIALISTS

HELD A STRAWBERRY FESTIVAL AND ENTERTAINMENT

A well attended strawberry festival and entertainment was held in Leather Workers' hall in Central street last night under the auspices of the Lowell socialist party. The entertainment consisted of musical numbers which were rendered in a manner which brought forth considerable applause. Thomas H. Connolly of Boston gave a talk on "Socialism." Present conditions, including especially the high cost of living, were gone over in detail by the speaker.

The other contributors to the evening's program consisted of mandolin and guitar selections by Eina Eckland and Miss Grace Eckland; trio, Messrs. Chevalier, Hird and Carroll; vocal, Messrs. Hird and Carroll; reading, Mrs. Emma Corbin; feats of magic, Thomas J. Knight.

TOBACCO POUCH

MADE BY CHIPPEWA CHIEF PRESENTED TO LOWELL MAN

Mr. Absolon Patenaude of Moody street is in receipt of a letter and a fine gift from his old friend, Mr. Dolor Lefolle formerly of this city and now of Manistique, Mich. In his letter Mr. Lefolle states he is getting along well in the west and is in a position to enjoy his favorite sport, hunting, for he is president of a large gun club, the Manistique Gun club.

Accompanying the letter was a fine handworked tobacco pouch which was made of buckskin. Mr. Lefolle says he killed the buck himself and had the skin tanned by an old Indian chief, Wabagawewes, chief of Chippewas, who claims he is 128 years old. The pouch was filled with some tobacco known as the Chippewas' favorite smoke, but it is too strong a smoke for the inhabitants of this part of the country, or at least for Mr. Patenaude, for one pipeful of it made him terribly sick.

Mr. Lefolle was a former employee of the Lawrence hosiery of this city, where for years he worked in the knitting department. He left several years ago for the western states and settled in Manistique, Mich., where he is now manager of a large department store.

200 YEARS OLD

WHITMAN TAKES PART IN ABINGTON CELEBRATION

WHITMAN, June 11.—Whitman's part in the celebration of the 200th anniversary of the settlement of the old town of Abington, of which Whitman and Rockland were formerly a part, was taken today with a demonstration by the school children of the three towns. Special cars brought the children from Rockland and Abington to Congregational church square, this town, where a procession was formed which passed through the principal streets to Whitman park. The exercises at the park included selections by three consolidated bands and addresses by Daniel R. Coughlan, John J. Geagan, former Gov. Louie and Melvin S. Nash. This was followed by a two hour program by 325 children on Little Round Top hill. A medal was awarded to the class in each town making the best general appearance in the parade.

FIRST PRIZE DRILL OF BOYS' BRIGADE

Held at the First Trinitarian Church

The first prize drill of the Boys' Brigade of the First Trinitarian church, Company F, Sixth Massachusetts regiment of the United Boys' Brigade of America was held last night in the vestry of the church and was very interesting, both for the spectators and those taking part. The judges were First Sergeant Robert G. Carlson, Quartermaster Sergeant William S. Miner and Sergeant George D. Crowell, all of Co. G of the Sixth Massachusetts regiment, M. V. M., and they awarded the prizes as follows: Sergeant William Messer, first prize, a silver medal; Sergeant Guy Taft, first honorable mention and Sergeant Ernest Hood, second honorable mention.

The officers of the Boys' Brigade who took charge of the company maneuvers were Capt. William B. Mochrie, first lieutenant Royal McLaughry and Second Lieut. Percy McMaster. The boys were put through all sorts of maneuvers which were very interesting and they showed that they knew something of the new ritual. The boys were put through the manual of arms with and without numbers and this was followed by a fine exhibition from a picked squad from Co. G in command of Corporals James G. Roddy and E. A. Deslandes.

The evening's program was closed with the prize drill. Every boy tried to do his best, the smallest member of the company taking just as earnest a part in the drill as his older comrades, and as a consequence it was a stubborn fight from the beginning. However, after some time only three sergeants remained on the floor and finally the above decision was announced by Rev. George F. Kenngott in behalf of the judges.

The members of the picked squad from Company G who drilled under Corporals Roddy and Deslandes were Privates Gustaf Anderson, C. A. Barton, W. J. Connolly, S. R. Matthews, P. Marcotte, C. A. Ganley and J. A. St. Pierre.

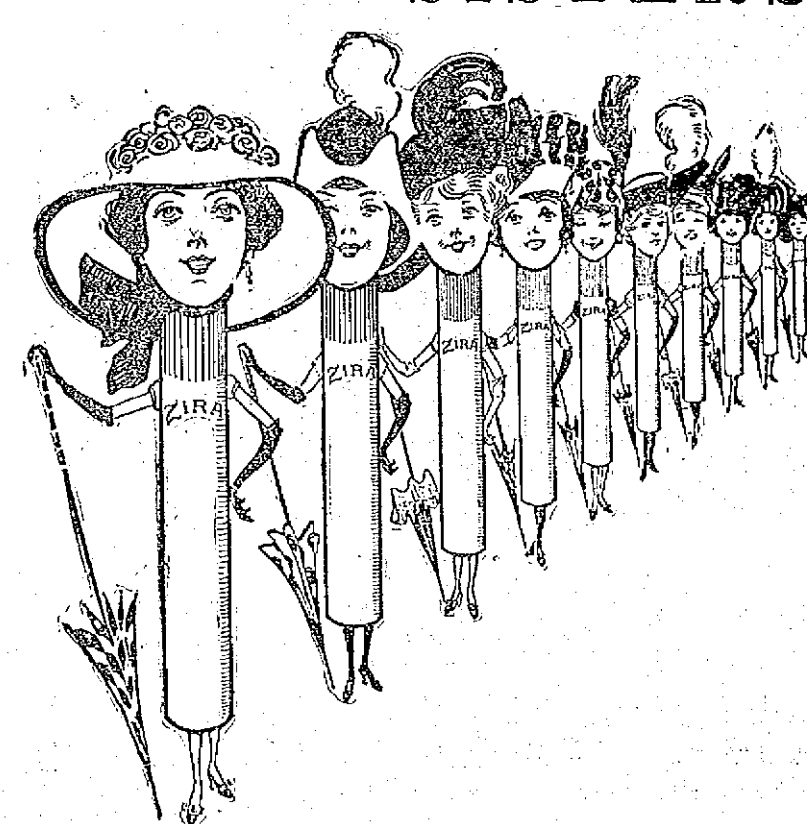

INJURIES FATAL

CHILD'S SKULL FRACTURED BY A FALL

BOSTON, June 11.—Anna Janossek, the 14 months' old daughter of Joseph Janossek of 15 School street, Cambridge, fell from a window of the second story of her home yesterday afternoon, a distance of 20 feet, receiving a fracture of the skull. She was taken to the Cambridge Relief hospital, where she died an hour later.

Anna had been sitting on a chair near the window while her mother was preparing supper. She climbed to the sill to look out, however, and in a second had lost her balance. Anna was the only child.

AUTOMOBILE NEWS

THE DARING JOE DAWSON THE OLDEST AUTOMOBILE THE PLEASANT WEATHER

Tells His Own Story of Is Owned and Driven by Has Resulted in Increase

Indianapolis Race

Abbe Gavois

in Auto Business

Joe Dawson, winner of the 500 mile race at the Indianapolis Speedway on Memorial Day, is a quiet, boyish young man full of life and fun but capable of serious reasoning and never "exceeds the speed limit" in his life habits. He is a Y. M. C. A. member and a constant attendant. With his enormous prize, $35,000, won last Memorial Day, Dawson still lives at his Indianapolis home.

Here is his own story of the world's greatest speed battle: "A man to win in any race, must know his car. 'De Palma, who drove his marvelous European car, the Mercedes, which has twenty per cent greater piston displacement and costs fabulously more than my National car, put up a wonderful fight for first place. DePalma is a great driver, but when all the cheers die down and the smoke clears away the cold fact remains that his car was not capable of going 500 miles at a winning speed and my National car did. I was even compelled to do two extra laps, 2 1/2 miles each, after I had won the race just for good measure to avoid any chances of mistakes in counting."

"I can not tell what won the race, as it was a combination of things that decided the victor in this, the greatest test of man and machine ever held since machines of any kind have been built. My record of 500 miles in 381 minutes and 5 seconds stands as a record for any kind of mechanism for that distance. No other man alive has traveled that far as fast as I did. I do not boast about it, but simply call attention to the fact that all the big powerful expensive cars, driven by drivers as experienced as I am, only one car won first place. It was the verdict of the white heat test."

"I was assisted by Don Herr who relieved me at the wheel for almost 30 miles while I rested in the rear pit. Instead of watching the race while I was resting and instead of keeping myself in a nervous strain, I flung my tired body onto the grass and relaxed entirely. I shut my eyes and tried not to hear the noise of the cars starting past on the track. Then when I went back into the fray I was much rested. Of course the car never had a rest, but my body is not made of vanadium and chrome nickel steel like the car is. I am just human."

"From past experience I never give up hope until a race is over. I knew DePalma was driving a wonderful race ahead of me in his Mercedes, and just behind me in the Fiat came my next closest rival. There I was in a medium priced American car, a wedge between the foreign Mercedes and the foreign Fiat car. But I am proud to say that I did take orders from the manager of the National team from the repair pits. I got a signal along toward the latter part of the race to slow down my speed; I really did not want to, because I was confident that my car could stand the pace I was going, but I obeyed and dropped from eighty to seventy miles an hour. It was not long after that when I got the signal to 'let her go.' That was the time DePalma's car began to go to pieces. I then began to go at the rate of 57 miles an hour. If I had never slowed down at all I could have broken the record easily much greater than I did. No, I was not so tired. My arms and shoulders were rather sore, but the strain was the hardest part. I had to keep a close watch all the time for fear some other car I was passing might crash into me. My car was not repaired any, no water was put in the radiator, but three spark plugs were replaced. I wish I could run the race over again and I would certainly drive even faster."

Abbe Gavois, a village priest at Rainneville, near Amiens, Paris, France, is proud of the fact that he possesses the oldest automobile in the world, says the Automobile. He bought it in 1894 from the Mayor of Troyes, in the Champagne district, who had purchased it new from the Panhard-Levassor factory on December 4, 1891. From that day to the present time the car has never missed a day on the road, and after 21 years' rough service the car has just undergone its first serious overhaul, and is again ready for 21 years' hard labor.

It is not sentiment but sound practical economy which causes Abbe Gavois to prefer his old two-seater Panhard to a more modern vehicle. Its speed of 12 miles an hour is quite sufficient for his requirements; its steel tires never cause him delay on the road and they have never called for a cent in upkeep. The two-cylinder motor of 2.7 by 4.3 inches bore and stroke, uses very little gasoline, although it is fed from the original carburetor, bigger than one of the cylinders of the motor, and has to use gasoline for the hot tube ignition. Taking into consideration losses, depreciation, renewals, gasoline and oil, the village priest declares that his motoring costs him less than a cent a mile, and he defies any modern manufacturer to supply him with a car that can be run at a lower cost.

The old car is interesting as being one of the best examples of the type from which the modern car has developed. As the result of publicity which has been given this old car, it has been secured to figure in the motor museum organized by The Motor in Oxford street, London, during the present London season. As soon as the exhibition is over it will be returned to its clerical owner and again take up its daily work in his scattered parish. All offers of purchase have been firmly refused, the priest's invariable reply being "give me something as cheap and as reliable as I will consider it." But until now he has not been shown a 1911 or 1912 product which, taken all in all, promised to serve him as well and as cheaply as his old buggy.

ENGRAVERS' CONVENTION
BOSTON, June 11.—Trade methods were discussed today by the delegates from coast to coast attending the 16th annual convention of the International Association of Photo-engravers. President Houser of Chicago presided. The women who came to the convention had an automobile ride to Lexington and Concord, where they visited historic places.

After several weeks of inclement weather Old Sol got the better of Jupiter Pluvius, and the former's rays spread forth in a manner which resulted in the drying of the roads and made the use of automobiles practical, especially for touring purposes. The trucks which are used by the local and suburban people have not been interrupted by the heavy rains, but when it came to pleasure trips there was a different question to consider, for unless one owned a town car or limousine he was discomforted by the driving rains.

Inasmuch as the roads in and around Lowell, and those which lead to the popular points, are either macadamized or oiled and are in good condition, those who wish to take a side trip find that the country roads at the present time are nothing more or less than muddy roads with deep ruts where it is necessary to use chains.

All of the roads leading out of Lowell are in fairly good condition but on the side roads it is necessary to drive slowly and then the car is smattered with mud and the thoroughfares are dangerous.

Many automobilists who intended to make trips during the past few weeks decided not to do so owing to the poor condition of the roads, believing that it would be preferable to use the steam trains or electric cars. During the past week the weather has been excellent with the exception of Sunday and today, when the strong winds made touring very bad.

Those who made trips on Sunday and Monday certainly found that the wind was very strong and many of them wished that they had never started. There are several local automobilists who are wearing windburned faces at the present time, due to the trips which they took.

The weather man, however, has promised some good weather, and if he does not hand it out to us very soon he will be in line for severe criticism.

Prosperous Business
The pleasant weather of the past week has been instrumental in the sales of many cars through the different local agencies. There has been a depression in the business of late but now with the weather conditions more agreeable for the sale of cars the dealers are wearing broad smiles. There were many sales made during the past week. The names of the persons to whom cars have been delivered will be given below, but there were many sales made wherein the purchasers do not want to have their names given.

Stevens-Duryea

Why?

Why have practically all the makers of fine cars, after holding off for several years, at last come 'round to making six-cylinders?

Why have nearly all makers copied one or another part of the original Stevens-Duryea form of construction?

Why were we "wrong" years ago and "right" now?

The world has come 'round to our way of thinking; that's all.

Milo on the Job
Milo Hale, the hustling salesman of the Lowell Automobile corporation, who is ever on the job, reports a number of sales during the past week. He sold a model 35 Buick to John Foster of Andover street and although the car has not as yet been delivered Mr. Foster has had several trials and is fast becoming an expert in operation. It is expected that within a few days he will be driving his own car with his own license tags attached on the front and rear of the machine.

Dr. George L. Van Deusen, with offices at 17 Kirk street and residing at 1039 Middlesex street, has also purchased a model 39 Buick, five passenger car. This is a beauty and the doctor should be proud of the purchase he has made.

A model 21 Buick, with a capacity of five passengers, has also been sold to Walter Billings of Wilton, N. H., through the agency of the Lowell Automobile corporation.

Mr. C. Herbert Peters of the Lowell Weaving Co. has purchased a model 34 Buick roadster.

Mr. Hale has also sold another touring car and two motor roadsters of the Buick model, but he does not desire to divulge the names of the purchasers until the cars have been delivered.

Speaking about pleasure cars it must not be forgotten that the Buick makes a specialty of commercial wagons. At the present time in the store room there is a one-ton truck with a stake body. It has a wheel base of 100 inches and is finished in red with a black running gear. There are hooks on the side which make it very convenient for the use of persons who wish to carry ladders, or pipes, such as carpenters and plumbers.

In conversation with a representative of The Sun, Milo Hale said that business has been very good of late, the only fault being that the orders are coming in so fast that he cannot secure delivery fast enough to accommodate prospective customers.

The Moody Bridge Garage
The Oakland car is as popular as ever, and Arthur Commiskey of the Moody Bridge garage is kept busy making demonstrations in this city. Lawrence and other towns in the vicinity. He has made sales during the past week but as previously stated does not care to divulge the names of the purchasers until the cars have been delivered. The only sale he would give out this week was that of a roadster car of John Farrell, the well known auctioneer.

Some Fire Pumps
"Since the Brown Impulse and the Mayo pumps were placed on the market there has been a noticeable decrease in the sales of sales and liniments for lame backs," said Joseph Halloran of the A. and H. tire shop, today, in speaking to the writer, while the latter was watching a tire being inflated with a Brown Impulse pump.

"Looking on," continued Joe, "is the hard piece of work which the automobilist has to do once he has purchased one of these pumps. To the uninitiated tire pumping is considered a small part of automobilism, but to his more experienced brother it is numbered among the hardest tasks which the automobilist has to face. It is quite a laborious thing and a great time consumer, to inflate a tire. Along with the labor and time lost another aggravating thing is to be watched by a crowd of curious on-lookers who seem to have the idea that a car is stopped in the highway for inspection or else suggestions."

Dr. Wells' New Reo
Dr. O. V. Wells of Westford was seen in the streets of this city today with his new model S, four passenger, detachable tonneau, Reo, which was delivered to him Sunday by George F. White, agent for the Reos in this city.

Dr. Wells wanted to get his car as soon as possible, and when word was received from Boston Saturday night that the car had arrived Mr. White left immediately. He went by train and upon inquiring at the New England agency of the Reo learned that the car was in Roxbury, where it had been placed in a garage after being unloaded from the car. He arrived at the garage shortly after 11:30 o'clock. The car was taken out, oiled and filled with gasoline and started Lowellward. The journey from the Roxbury garage to Mr. White's home in North Chelmsford took just one hour and nineteen minutes.

The International Cars
Two more International cars were sold by the E. Smith Co. the past week. Jeremiah Sheehan, the well known grocer of North Billerica, purchased an air cooled model and Michael Lallas, a farmer, residing in Chelmsford, bought a water cooled car, for general farming usage.

THE DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM

There is much speculation as to what the democratic platform will be. The leading principles of the democratic party are well known. They include a tariff for revenue only, an income tax, reciprocity and such a general revision of the tariff as will break down the monopolies now maintained by the various trusts of the country. Free sugar will be a leading item in the democratic platform, while the general demand for free trade in the leading necessities of life must be provided for. The high cost of living makes it essential that the tariff bars must be taken down at certain points in order to admit free the commodities which are now controlled by trusts, and which sell for the most unreasonable prices.

Most of the burdens which the people have to endure from the high cost of living result directly or indirectly from the high tariff wall that fosters the trusts enabling them while protected against foreign competition, to stamp out domestic competition.

The extortions of the trusts and combines are limited only by the ability of the people to pay. The Sherman anti-trust law must be made more specific, and more easy of enforcement. As it has been administered by the United States government and interpreted by the United States supreme court, it is found to be of very little use. Its application in the Standard Oil case and others has shown that under a different form of organization the trusts can still continue to do business without being amenable to the penalties of the Sherman law which under various interpretations has been reduced to a sham and a humbug.

BRIGHT BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Reports from the mercantile agencies show that there is a steady upward tendency in business, and that the prospect of better business during the coming summer and fall is unusually good. It is now reasonably certain that this year will not be subject to the business depression usually incident to the presidential year. The country is not so much disturbed at the prospect of a change in the political administration as when it was a question between high protection and free trade. There is now no party in favor of free trade. The democratic party favors a tariff for revenue only and a reduction of the duty on trust controlled articles.

The unseasonable weather of late has affected farming unfavorably. But the greater amount of trade as shown by the exports and imports is still quite encouraging. For the 49 weeks ending June 6th the wheat sent abroad amounted to 160,923,336 bushels against 170,186,216 in the like period last year. Other statistics dealing with bank clearings, railroad earnings and the iron business, which is regarded as a good business barometer, also indicate a very encouraging tendency. The prospect, therefore, is for a good season's business provided it be not marred by strikes and industrial conflicts that mean business disaster to all lines of industry.

EVADING PAYMENT OF TAXES

Our residents of foreign nationality should remember that they come here to engage in our industries, finding our schools, our health department, our police and fire service all in perfect working order. They benefit by all these and should not object to paying the ordinary taxes assessed which are very light. It is reported, however, that the constables who have tax bills for many of those who speak foreign languages are wholly unable to collect or to find the men to whom the bills are made out. That is a reflection upon the nationality of the men who do this, and it is bound to get them into trouble sooner or later. If any foreign element of our population practices this evasion of law they will be set down as dishonest and as lacking the stuff necessary for good citizenship. It has been suggested that collectors who speak the languages of the foreign elements be employed to collect, but nobody wants the job, for the reason that the foreigner who would push his own nationality for payment of taxes would take very serious risks. This is not true of all the foreign elements but is true of some, and these are the people who make the trouble and discredit their fellow countrymen.

ROOSEVELT TO FIGHT THE MAJORITY

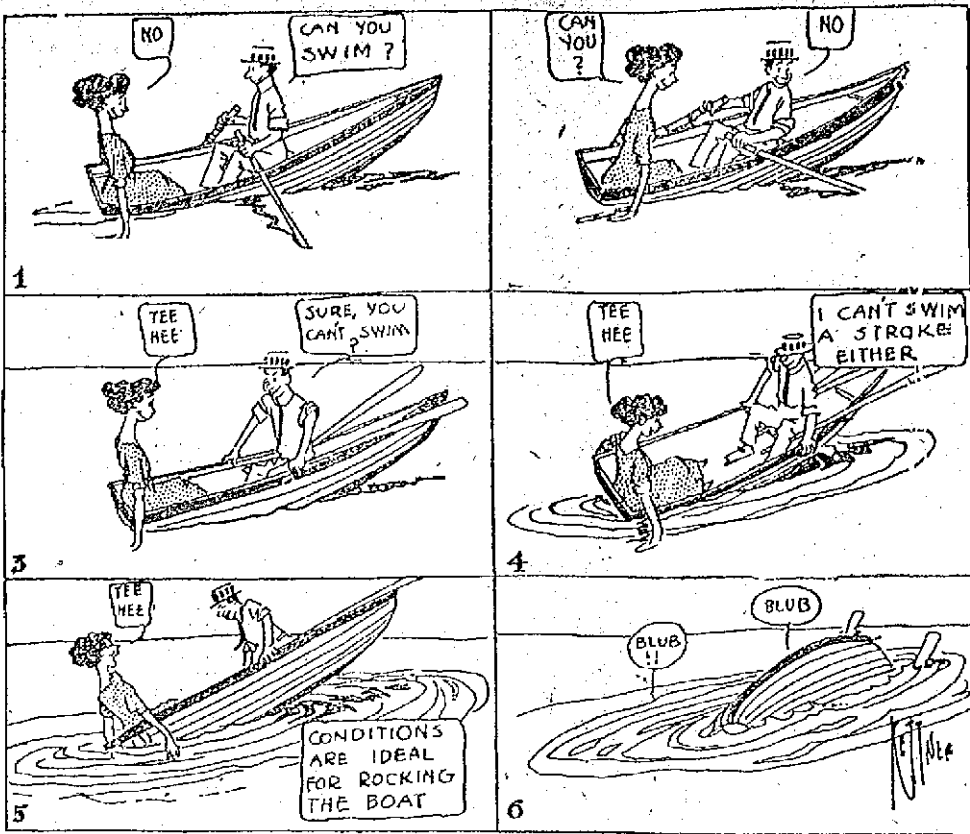

In the fight for delegates, the people seem to forget that Roosevelt after promising not to be a candidate came out and openly violated his pledge, announcing his candidacy. He appeals to the people not to give Taft a second term that he may get a third term in violation of long established custom. What was refused to Grant and every other candidate who sought it is now claimed by Colonel Roosevelt in the role of demagogue appealing to the prejudices of the people against the bosses. The masses in this country seem very susceptible to demagogues at the present time and particularly to the Roosevelt brand. Whether they will put this man in the saddle to give an exhibition in rough riding over the rights of the people and the security of the courts remains to be seen. The Colonel has already indicated that he will adopt some rebellious methods, and he is expected to bolt if he does not get the nomination at Chicago. That will prove him to be a dangerous man as the candidate who violates his own promises, established custom and even majority rule would be a dictator pure and simple. We cannot afford to make such a man president.

OUR INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL

Lowell is having its difficulties with the state board of education over the industrial school established there, of which William H. Dooley, formerly principal of the local industrial school, is principal. It will be remembered that Lawrence, had its difficulties in getting money from the state to support the school here, and now Lowell is being criticized by the state authorities for not doing enough for the school and on this ground the state declines to share its part of the expense.—Lawrence Telegram.

There is really no justification for the above item. The state board is looking to the future demands of the school and wants some assurance that they will be provided for. The school thus far has given entire satisfaction to the state board and indeed to the local school board. It is becoming so popular that a new building will be needed in the near future. That is what the state board is looking forward to, and it is justified in notifying the Lowell school board that the present accommodations will soon be wholly inadequate.

The department of agriculture has now no Dr. Wiley to fight for pure food, and consequently we may expect to find benzoate of soda freely used in the canning factories. Already it has been found that 26,000 pounds of embalmed beef have been sent to the marines in Cuba on the cruiser Prairie. The naval stores described the stuff as filthy and diseased, and this is what was intended for the American sailors. Dr. McCabe, who drove out Dr. Wiley, insisted that the beef was all right but the naval inspector was ready to prove his charges.

THE BOAT-ROCKING FOOL

Seen and Heard

Here are a few suggestions that will do no harm to read:

Don't allow your business to become your master.

Don't discuss business at home, or in social life.

Take a cool shower bath and vigorous exercise before an open window the first thing upon arising.

Partake of a very light breakfast an hour after arising, eliminating tea, coffee, bread, potatoes and meat.

Walk to your business, if possible; breathe deeply.

Eliminate woolen underwear; dress as lightly as possible.

Take an hour for luncheon, omit tea, coffee, tobacco, beer and sweets.

Keep your office well ventilated.

Secure competent help and trust them.

Love some one or some thing—a dog will do.

Leave your office early enough to walk home, or at least part of the way.

Masticate your food infinitely fine and by all means—do not overeat. This is the crowning sin of the civilized table. We usually eat as much as we want, then call into activity another set of taste buds by forcing on the appetite another kind of food.

Take from ten to fifteen minutes' exercise before retiring; sleep in a cold, thoroughly ventilated room.

Spend as much time as possible in the sunshine and open air. Play golf, join a gymnasium, dance, sing, kick and play with the boys for it is infinitely better to dig in the ditch for your dinner and be able to digest and enjoy it, than to lie invalid in your self-made prison, and perhaps die and probably if the truth were written on your tombstone it would read:

There was a fool who made a fortune, but he died.

The world called him great, but it lied.

LOVE'S WAY

That is not love which always much desires

Which ever suspects and needs new proof each day;

Thus burn the glaring flames of passion's fire,

But flaming passion burns itself away.

That is not love which feels its condescending,

Nor passes by with cold and haughty smile;

Love knows no such condition, all unbending,

That's only love of admiration-pride.

Nor is that love which contemplates condition,

Or hesitates, till impulse swift has sped;

That which would, in the balance, weigh nothing else, far better left unsaid.

Nay, love has naught to do with hesitation;

It has one aim, one impulse and one end;

And little does it care for rank or station,

While always gracious, love delights to bend.

Love asks but love and little else requires,

And given love, on love will gladly live;

Naught else receiving, love naught else desires,

For chiefest of love's pleasures is to give.

—Allen Johnson.

Real Scotch Tweeds

Harris Island homespun, made in light weights, are among our exclusive suitings from Rogers-Peet & Co. Such materials can be had only from expensive merchant tailors—or bought here.

Every man who owns a light weight overcoat this season has "hugged" himself—if you are "shy" one of these useful garments we can help you out. Spring Overcoats . . . $10 to $30

KATZ DISCOURAGED

WANTED TO DIE

Cripple Found Struggle Too Hard

NEW YORK, June 11.—Michael Katz, a crippled young man who occasionally sold his writings to magazines, tried to commit suicide by inhaling gas at the Occident hotel, Bowery and Broome street, yesterday. An employee smelled gas and called two policemen who broke in the door and found the young man sitting in a chair, unconscious, with the end of a gas tube tied to his mouth with strips of sheeting. He was sent to St. Vincent's hospital, where it was said that though he was unconscious he would probably recover. The young man wrote eight letters and left them in the room, with a poem which was signed with his initials. The poem was written in a clear hand, and is:

Only a suicide's grave, 'twas shown
To those who passed it by, unknown—
What need to know the name or creed
Of one committing such a deed?
He lies there in his grave despoiled,
Unwept, unmourned, unrecognized.

A letter addressed to "Whom it may concern," asked that Julius Goldstein of 54 Suffolk street be notified, and continued: "I am doing this act voluntarily, though absolute necessity be the cause. In these days of 'the survival of the fittest' my crippled condition renders it impossible for me to secure a position and rather than depend on kind friends or become a charity patient I prefer ending it altogether before sinking in the scale."

There was also a letter to his mother, Mrs. Mary Katz, of 22 Plymouth place, Brooklyn, Mass., and to his sister in the Bronx. Mrs. Day Witte of 128 Broome street, who, with her husband often befriended the young man, said he was very popular in the neighborhood.

"He was always picking out plots for stories," she said, "from the human interest happenings in the neighborhood. He received an injury to his foot when a boy and a year ago his leg was amputated at Bellevue hospital. While recovering there he wrote many poems for the nurses, and made such an impression upon them that half-a-dozen continued the friendship after he left the hospital, and every week now he gets letters from some of them. "But he never seriously looked at any woman, but one, and she is a young working girl, who is very much in love with him. He tried to forget her because he thought that he never could earn money enough to support her. The last place he had paid him $7 a week. He knew typewriting and stenography."

JUDGE SCHOFIELD DIED AT MALDEN

Served Only Few Days on Circuit Court

MALDEN, June 11.—Judge William Schofield, who a year ago was appointed United States circuit judge to succeed Judge Francis C. Lowell, died shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at his home, 136 Summer street, after an illness lasting about a year.

At his bedside were his wife and the nurse who had been attending him for many months.

Judge Schofield was appointed United States circuit judge by President Taft May 24, 1911. Early in June he was inducted into office, but he sat in court for only three or four days. He had been taken ill in May, and the illness developed into a spinal trouble which confined him to his house.

One of his last cases as superior court judge was that of Mrs. Lena Cusumano and Enrico Mascell, at Plymouth, in February, 1911, in which he sentenced both to electrocution.

CADUM for Eczema

Cadum stops the terrible itching of eczema at once and begins healing with the first application. The suffering it has relieved has been so widespread that it is called a blessing by thousands. It is antiseptic and destroys disease germs. Trial box 10c. at druggists.

A LITTLE NONSENSE

MAKING READY.
"Look at Bronson trying to push that steam roller! Is he crazy?"
"Not at all. He's training for the lawn-mowing season."

THE BRUTE.
Wife—Howard, I listened to you for half an hour last night, while you were talking in your sleep.
Hubby—Thanks, dear, for your self restraint.

OPPOSED TO WAR.
"I'm going to bind you over to keep the peace."
"It isn't necessary, Judge. I belong to a universal peace society."

GOOD CLASSIFICATION.
Nurse (calling)—Twins.
Father—What?
Nurse—One ballplayer and one suffragette.

GOING AWAY.
"Why are you breaking up housekeeping?"
"My wife's feminist says she'll have to take the rubber plant to a different climate for a while."

WOES OF MEN.
"My wife often alludes tearfully to the fact that she threw over a millionaire to marry me."
"Mine's just as bad. Her father offered to buy her a French poodle if she'd turn me down."
